THE row over referee Mark Clattenburg allegedly using the word 'monkey' to Chelsea player John Mikel Obi shows how toxic the issue of race has become.

No right-minded person would condone racism in football but that is surely why Chelsea were wrong in making their complaint public.

There is no suggestion Clattenburg has a racist bone in his body so to throw such an allegation at him is deeply damaging.

If he did use the word, is there any evidence he meant it in a racially-derogatory manner?

How many of us call our kids 'cheeky monkeys', for example?

There has to be a nagging suspicion that some people lurking on the margins of the game are seeing racism where there is none, in order to further their own political agenda.

That cannot be good for anyone.

IT'S ROUGH JUSTICE

IT beggars belief that the Serbian police have seen fit to charge England Under 21 coach Steve Wigley and players Steven Caulker and Tom Ince.

The trio are facing charges following a brawl that broke out on the pitch in Krusevac at the end of their Euro 2013 play-off tie.

This was the shambolic game where Wigley himself was surrounded and attacked as he tried to leave the pitch at the end of the match.

And where racist abuse was hurled at Danny Rose.

Is this what counts as justice in Serbia?

Let us not forget that not long ago, the Serbian authorities were involved in the largest rampage of genocide.

TWO people were burned to death after a car hit a tree and erupted into a fireball.

The victims were trapped in the wreckage after the car slewed off the road.

The crash happened on the northbound carriageway of the A348 in Bournemouth.

A spokesman for Dorset Police said the road had been closed for at least 10 hours to allow firemen to remove the bodies from the wreckage and for the scene to be examined by crash investigators.

Families in Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia also lost relatives, as did those to the south in Haiti and Cuba.

Five cholera centres in Haiti - which was lashed by Sandy days before the storm hit New York - had 50 extra patients.

New York's marathon, which usually attracts 40,000 runners and

X Factor fave Lucy quits show after illness

The 21-year-old pulled out yesterday saying that she feels it would be unfair on the other contestants to miss two shows in a row and have two free passes through to the next round.

A statement from X Factor chiefs said: "Lucy isn't well enough to perform this weekend so she has decided to withdraw from the competition."

"We are all sorry to see her go and wish her all the best for the future. She has been a fantastic contestant."

Lucy said in a statement: "I am gutted not to be able to continue on this journey but I'm not well enough to perform."

EX-DJ Danny Baker took to the airwaves yesterday for the first time since his on-air rant against BBC bosses.

The shock jock quit his BBC London 94.9 show live on air and went on a two-hour tirade against station chiefs after learning his regular daily show is to be canned.

Baker, 55, began his apparently unaffected Radio 5 Live show this morning by saying "it does seem odd (to be back) after the maelstrom of the week".

In his rant on Thursday, Danny complained about the pay his co-hosts were given and said he hoped the decision-makers choked on their abacus beads.

He blamed cost-cutting, and added: "By the way, nice way to treat a bloke who had cancer."

A BBC spokesman said: The decision wasn't driven by savings. All stations from time to time refresh their schedules."

WAS SAVILE THE ACCOMPLICE?

HOW'S A-BOUT THAT, THEN: Boxer Bruno shakes hands with serial killer Sutcliffe after being introduced by evil Savile

NICE GUY?: That's how weird Savile referred to Yorkshire Ripper

Sutcliffe murders linked to sex beast DJ

By JUSTIN DUNN

justin@sundaysport.co.uk

SEX fiend Jimmy Savile has been fingered as an ACCOMPLICE of Yorkshire Ripper Peter Sutcliffe, Sunday Sport can reveal.

In the most sensational allegations yet made about the telly nonce, investigators have uncovered a series of extraordinary links between Savile and Sutcliffe which point to something MORE than the known friendship they shared behind the walls of Broadmoor high security hospital.

Sutcliffe's brutalising reign of terror lasted from 1975 until his eventual arrest in 1981, during which time the psycho viciously murdered 13 women and tried to kill seven more.

Branded mentally ill, he is serving his 20 life sentences at Broadmoor, where Savile – first as a volunteer and later in an official capacity – used to have living accommodation and keys to the wards.

Savile became pals with the murderer, a fact caught on film in 1991 when he invited Frank Bruno to open a gym at the secure unit and the boxer was snapped shaking hands with the Ripper.

In the unsettling photograph, wiry-haired, bearded Sutcliffe is wearing a shiny shellsuit similar to those famously worn by the now disgraced DJ, who died a year ago aged 84.

A generation's byword for fear Sutcliffe committed his foul crimes across Yorkshire – mainly Bradford and Leeds, the latter being Savile's home town.

Today Sunday Sport can reveal: ●THE body of the Ripper's first murder victim, Wilma McCann, was found on October 30, 1975, on Prince Phillip Playing Fields...in LEEDS.

●OTHERS were attacked in the city's Roundhay Park – which was overlooked by Savile's luxury PENTHOUSE.

●VICTIM Vera Millward was slaughtered in the car park of Manchester Royal Infirmary – where Savile once LIVED.

●TRAGIC Josephine Whitaker was found dead in Halifax in a place chillingly called SAVILE Park Moor.

●SICKO Sutcliffe once described how he viciously attacked one woman outside Savile's HOME.

●VILE Savile once described serial sex killer Sutcliffe as "a NICE GUY with a good nature".

●SAVILE appeared to ADMIT he had killed during an interview.

When Sutcliffe, 66, was at last arrested after one of Britain's largest ever manhunts, he blamed "voices" in his head for spurring him on to kill.

Describing one murder, he told cops: "I hit her on the head at least two or three times. I lifted up her clothes and slashed her abdomen and throat."

Sutcliffe also told police he left the murder scene after he heard voices, but couldn't tell where they were coming from. He also heard a car being driven away from the entrance to a house.

Sutcliffe claimed he "later" discovered that the house was where "disc jockey Jimmy Savile lived".

But the question now is: Did Sutcliffe know the house belonged to Savile BEFORE the attack? And did he know it was Savile's house because he'd been there before?

In August 1988, the Jim'll Fix It host was appointed as chair of an interim task force overseeing the management of Broadmoor Hospital.

His appointment was made by the then junior health minister Edwina Currie and rubber-stamped by her boss, Health Secretary Kenneth Clarke.

Savile's bizarre relationship with Sutcliffe was one of

AND DID HE ORDER JILL DANDO'S MURDER?

KILL DANDO: Popular TV presenter Jill knew of Savile's sick lusts

EVIL Jimmy Savile ordered the murder of BBC presenter Jill Dando because she was about to expose his sick lust for children.

That's the shocking theory being put forward for the still unsolved shooting of the former Crimewatch host in 1999.

Speculation is growing that Savile – who once boasted of his connections with the IRA – had Dando killed because she was determined to out him as a predatory paedophile.

She died aged 37 on April 26, 1999, after arriving alone at her home in Gowan Avenue, Fulham, just after 11.30am.

The killer forced her to lie face down on the path outside her own front door before shooting her in the head with a single bullet.

Her body was discovered about 14 minutes later by neighbour Helen Doble. Police were called and Dando was rushed to nearby Charing Cross Hospital, where she was declared dead on arrival.

BBC journalist Sally Jones revealed last week that Dando had warned her of Savile's "perverted" ways while comforting her after he had groped her in the 80s.

Ms Jones told how she had a "close encounter" with the DJ after getting into a lift with him.

The journalist said that she was acquainted with Savile when in her early thirties, but found him to be "a weird, self-conscious attention-seeker, even creepier than the rest of his fellow DJs".

After finding herself alone in a lift with him, she revealed how he asked for a kiss before forcing his tongue into her mouth.

"The acrid taste of cigar smoke almost made me retch and I froze, cringing, as he ran one hand up from my waist and fumbled for my breast," she said.

Ms Jones pushed Savile away and later told what had happened to her friend Ms Dando, herself then a new journalist at the BBC.

She recalls how Ms Dando said: "He's just a dirty old perv, half the DJs are like that."

The question now is whether Jill took her concerns further – and whether Savile got wind of what she was planning.

When a friend of his died after a suspected mugging incident in 2000, he demanded the names of the suspects from a local news reporter.

Chillingly, he told the journalist: "All I have to do is call my friends in the IRA. They'll have someone waking up in hospital the next morning eating their breakfast through a f***ing straw.

"I know the IRA, men from the IRA, and you don't need to ask these guys twice."

"I'm serious. Don't f***ing think I'm not serious. I can get them done – just with a phone call. That's all it takes."

Barry George, 52, was convicted of Dando's murder in 2001 but the conviction was later quashed by the Court of Appeal. At a retrial in 2008 he was found not guilty.

Serbian warlords angry at Dando's fronting of a campaign to raise aid for Kosovar Albanian refugees have also been accused of ordering the presenter's death.

RIPPER'S

the reasons broadcaster Louis Theroux made a documentary with him in 2000. Theroux said: "I actually started making my Jimmy Savile film out of a fascination with the macabre rumours that used to swirl around him – many of them started by Jimmy himself. "One was that he didn't actually like children, despite hosting one of Britain's most famous children's TV shows."

"Another, written in his autobiography, that the few days he spent alone with his deceased mother's body during her laying out was the time of his life."

"That he was in charge of 'entertainment' at Broadmoor where he would have tea with Peter Sutcliffe."

"That he spent spare time volunteering as a hospital porter at Leeds General Infirmary where he was known for wheeling bodies into the morgue."

He added: "I was struck by his network of friends and helpers he had in each place and their loyalty to him."

After the Theroux documentary was screened, Savile said of the film-makers: "If he wants to die, he can die. He won't be the first I've put away."

Two weeks ago, Sunday Sport was the first newspaper in the world to reveal that Savile's volunteer work as a hospital porter was a guise for him to sexually abuse patients both living and DEAD.

Terror

Our story was corroborated by Savile's former Radio 1 colleague Paul Gambacinni, who told Radio Five Live: "He targeted the institutionalised, the hospitalised – and this was known."

"Why did Jimmy go to hospitals? That's where the patients were."

Stoke Mandeville Hospital, in Aylesbury, Bucks, has since launched an investigation into his unaccompanied mortuary visits. There is NO suggestion that any hospital authorities knew of his vile activities.

But it is the strange warmth of his friendship with one of Britain's most evil men that is now being explored.

One prison source said: "Mad or not, the Ripper butchered those poor women in cold blood and yet Savile had the gall to call him 'a nice guy'."

"It's hard to tell who was the creepiest."

Dog bummer designed iconic BBC statue

THE man who sculpted the famous statue gracing BBC Broadcasting House was a twisted deviant who had sex with his DAUGHTERS, SISTERS – and even his DOG.

Artist Eric Gill's sickening traits weren't even much of a secret – as he kept a notes in volumes of diaries that he updated every day of his life.

Gill, who died in 1940 aged 58, sculpted the iconic Prospero and Ariel statue for the Beeb in 1933, and other friezes that adorn the building.

He also sculpted many religious statues used in Roman Catholic churches and for other institutions around the country.

But in 1989, the biographer Fiona McCarthy stunned the art world with her shocking depiction of the real Eric Gill, quoting chunks of his diaries in which he openly described giving a man a blowjob, sex with his sisters and two daughters, and discovering "that a dog will join with a man".

'Nuts' Icke hits back at BBC pygmies

NEW age guru David Icke has hit back at the BBC's "intellectual pygmies" after he was mocked on quiz show Have I Got News For You.

The former sports presenter (above) was branded "nuts" by guest star Will Gompertz – the Beeb's Art Editor.

Yesterday Icke posted on his website: "You would think the BBC would have more humility in current circumstances. But this guy told prime time viewers last night that I am 'nuts'.

"Will Gompertz has never met me, never read my books and never heard me speak.

"The BBC claims to be a world-class broadcaster and yet employs so many intellectual pygmies who, if their brains were gunpowder, would not ruffle their eyebrows."

BONFIRE FRIGHT!

Sleeping cider tramp is saved from grisly death

By SIMON DEAN

simon@sundaysport.co.uk

WHEN a turps-supper decided to settle down to sleep off a busy morning on the Lidl cider, a warm, dry pile of wood seemed the ideal spot.

Little did he know, but his temporary roost was on top of a BONFIRE and were it not for an eagle-eyed community warden, the air would have been thick with the stench of roasted TRAMP.

As it was, the Gentleman of the Road – named locally as Wobbly Bob – was led from the top of the pyre by council carers and given a bed in a refuge for the night.

This astonishing snap was taken by Sunday Sport reader Alan Kelvin who was in a crowd gathered around the pile of wood after the warden raised the alarm in Bobber's Hill, Nottingham.

Noises

Labourer Alan, 32, said: "We heard all this shouting from outside. When I went to look there was a crowd.

"I managed to push to the front and then I saw him – Wobbly Bob on top, fast asleep, if you please.

"He's lucky because it was only just before they lit it for the Bobber's Hill Bonfire Night on Friday!

"If he hadn't been spotted, he'd be roast tramp by now."

Almost recovered from his ordeal and refreshed with some more cider, almost-toasted Bob said: "Aaargh! It was just like almost the end. Aaargh! The noises! The noises!"

At this point Bob became a little tearful and confused, asking to be taken to a woman called "Daphne".

Proud Bobber's Hill community warden Josh Barrymore, 18, beamed: "Some people say the Bobber's Hill Community Warden Scheme is all about litter and dogshit.

"I think this case shows the scheme is a lot more than that. A life has been saved, though to be honest, I would have let him burn."

For decades, Bonfire Night organisers have been advised to check their for hedgehogs. In recent years they have also been warned to check for the homeless.

The near-tragedy of Wobbly Bob show just how timely that warning is!

EXCLUSIVE

by LIZ STEAD, JOHN FITZPATRICK and DANIEL HORNSEY

action after our report last week that the panther-like beast was stalking hikers in the Peak District National Park.

Monster

We reported how hiker Stan Orbison, 42, photographed a mystery monster while sipping a cup of tea during a ramble.

So, armed with torches and ropes to snare the beast, Bill joined newshounds John Fitzpatrick, Liz Stead and Daniel Hornsey and headed for the hills.

Keeping the team happy and adding a bit of busty eye candy was 32DD Bradford babe Amber Price, 22.

The pussy hunters made for windswept Stanage Edge, which towers above the Hope Valley in Derbyshire midway between Manchester and Sheffield. There they met up with Peak District warden Bill Smith, 56, who's seen evidence of big cat activity himself.

Bloodsoaked

Goodies star Bill, originally from Rochdale, set up traps baited with bloodsoaked oxtail to lure the beast into the open.

He joked: "Maybe we should put tasty Amber in the trap!"

But as night fell and sub-zero winds began to howl, the search became more Blair Witch Project than Zoo Quest...

BRAVE glamour girl Amber Price couldn't wait to get her manicured claws into the big cat hunt, she tells our man JOHN FITZPATRICK.

I WAS obviously hoping to find the big cat – but at the same time I was terrified that I'd wind up getting my face mauled off!

I was wet, cold and muddy in the wilds of the Peak District. But worse was sitting in the dark waiting for something to happen. It was awful – the tension was immense.

I was glad wildlife expert Bill Oddie was with us – if we WERE going to be attacked by a savage moggy I'd let it eat Bill while I got away!

I don't want to die with my make-up all messed and bad hair – I'd be in the morgue looking like a right mess.

Bill set up our trap using a bit of oxtail he'd got from the butcher as bait. Pah! I told him, don't you know that cats don't like oxtail, cats like cat food!

Luckily I'd brought a tin of the stuff with me, a fishy one, along with some cat biscuits.

But in the end, even my tasty cat food wasn't enough to snare the beast.

Hiding

So, we never managed to get a glimpse of the Peak District Panther. But it doesn't mean it's not real. Maybe it's just really good at hiding?

And I'm happy to be alive – as well as glad that no one had to find my entrails!

It was a great adventure, and something I may never get to do again.

TASTY: But Amber was scared she might get mauled

CAT TERRORISING LOCALS...

PUSSY MAGNET: Bill Oddie and park warden Bill hoped a portion of beef might draw the big cat out

GOODIE JOB: Bill prepares the ground as the night closes in on the team

AS he packed away his traps, wildlife boffin Bill Oddie talked to reporter LIZ STEAD about his experience hunting the big cat.

I CAN'T stand cats, even the small ones – they kill birds!

The warden here told me of a sheep he'd discovered torn apart. Only a very large animal could have done that. It's not your grandma's cat roaming around, we were looking for a f***-off big predator.

Large beasts can go unspotted for years, especially if they're nocturnal, like cats. I was hoping to find the animal's poo or footmarks and prove it exists. We didn't find any, but it doesn't mean it isn't out there. There are a lot of creatures at large – like the famous Beast of Bodmin – and you never know what's right under your nose. They tend to be pets that have escaped or released by irresponsible owners.

There used to be hundreds of wild animals reported, just like alien abduction tales.

Our confusion and panic could well have scared the beast off, and it left us with more chance of catching a cold! I was still scared to be holding the reeking meat which we took as bait!

These monstrous predators are full-blown carnivores that will eat anything if it's meaty. Amber's petite frame was safe, there's nothing on her.

It would feast on sheep, and then hares, maybe even small dogs. Of course, animals are unpredictable especially when threatened – one swipe or bite and you'd be pretty sorry to have crossed its path.

Our hunt was surprisingly scary, but the model's presence baffled me slightly. I've never wandered through the moors and seen a model strutting around before. It was great fun to have her there, regardless.

Still, I just want to warn everyone there's something bigger and scarier than us out there on the moors – and it could be closer than you think!

'KILLER CROC' IN MANCHESTER CANAL

Experts warn public to stay clear of water's edge

REPTILE experts have warned dog walkers they risk being EATEN alive after a killer CROCODILE was spotted in a UK canal. Stunned witnesses in Manchester saw the four-foot long beast devouring ducks before disappearing.

Residents in the Castlefield area of the city have also reported the mutilated carcasses of fish lying on the side of the Rochdale Canal, where the croc is thought to lurk.

By LIZ STEAD

Shaun Foggett, 33, the owner of Crocodile World, the UK's only sanctuary for the critters, said: "The tell-tale sign of a predatory animal in the canal would be the disappearance of birds and fish."

"The reports suggest this is occurring and it's possible that a crocodile could grab someone from the banks."

The initial sighting came from Alan Whitall, a homeless man living just yards from the canal.

The 51-year-old said: "I saw it take a duck from the surface of the water. It's about time people started taking this seriously."

It's not the first time a croc has cropped up in Blighty.

In 2003 police were called to investigate sightings of a large reptile in a pond in Cannock, Staffs, and a British waterways survey in 2005 found all sorts of misplaced animals, including a small crocodile, in a lake near Gloucestershire.

It's thought many reptiles end up in British waterways when exotic pet stores close down, and owners chuck the animals into the nearest water.

'Sleepwalk' hotel groper found guilty of sex assault

A MAN who claimed to be sleepwalking when he groped a fellow guest after a wedding has been convicted of sexual assault.

Artist Matthew Forster fondled a sleeping 23-year-old woman in a hotel room following the reception.

During his trial the 37-year-old, who has an art gallery in Hexham, Northumberland, told jurors he remembered nothing about what had gone on and the only thing he knew he did that night was sleep.

He admitted he must have done what the woman claimed, but was not guilty of sexual assault as he would have been sleepwalking at the time.

The victim had told jurors how she had woken night to find someone touching her.

She initially froze but then fought back by biting her attacker. Forster had a bite mark to his chest the following morning.

At Newcastle Crown Court Forster was handed six months' jail, suspended for two years, with 100 hours unpaid work. He must also register as a sex offender for five years.

Evil woman made teen drink urine

A WOMAN who tortured a teenage boy and made him drink his own URINE during a terrifying two-hour ordeal has been jailed.

Evil Kerry Howle (above), 26, also forced the 15-year-old schoolboy to eat a mouldy sausage roll – which she had SPAT on and coated in cigarette ash.

She then smashed the cowering lad on the head with a glass ashtray and made him lick up his own BLOOD during the brutal attack on August 2, this year.

Howle, from Chesterton, Staffs, even made other youths attack the lad, told him he was dead and threatened to have him kidnapped, kill his mum and cut her tongue out.

She was jailed for four years after pleading guilty to assault occasioning actual bodily harm at Stoke-on-Trent Crown Court.

The judge said the assault was "one of the most dreadful offences of violence towards children" he had ever come across.

SHOWBIZ shagger George Lineker must be losing his touch.

Because the legendary pork swordsman went out on the lash with two Sunday Sport babes – and DIDN'T try to jump their bones!

George, 20, whose dad is the Match of the Day host and ex-England star Gary, 51, has been linked to a string of gorgeous models – including Big Brother 10 winner Sophie Reade, 22, and topless starlet Jess Impiazzi, 23.

But when he went out with 32FF babe Corinne Harrison, 24, and 32C Lisa O'Connor, 24, (left) he behaved himself.

Brunette Corinne said: "George and I have been friends for a while. We met each other out clubbing in London.

"Nothing has ever happened between us though. He is a bit young for me!

"We always have a good giggle when we go out and I think like any lad his age he likes to have a glamorous girl on his arm... or two!

"Me and Lisa went out to DSTRKT in London with him and a few of his mates and just spent the night drinking vodka and dancing.

"There was no naughty business and we definitely didn't have a threesome!"

Pals Corinne, from Docklands in London, and Lisa, from Gwent in Wales, have both been linked to a string of celebs.

Beauty and the Beast star Corinne dated Tottenham Hotspur midfielder Tom Huddlestone, 25, and Lisa had a fling with Jade Goody's widower Jack Tweed, 25.

GAZZA

The signing they ALL wanted

SIMON Cowell's face last week was scarier than most of the Halloween masks I saw.

If you ask me, he's had a few fillers and a bit of a lift, and it's left his face all puffy.

Seriously, next to his face, Alvin and the Chipmunks would look anorexic!

I did plenty of effing at refs!

I'VE heard referees say some daft things in my time but never anything racist.

The Chelsea players claim ref Mark Clattenburg (above) called their black midfielder John Obi Mikel a monkey during last weekend's match against Manchester United.

If those allegations are true he deserves to be sacked, but I've honestly never heard a ref say anything racist.

All I had to put up with was Jeff Winter calling me a fat bastard, but that was just banter!

Married

Every time Jeff reffed me, we had a full-scale argument for 90 minutes. We were like a married couple. I'd say, "F***ing hell, that's crap, Jeff," and he'd go, "Listen Gazza, you fat bastard, I was in a bad position, but you're having a sh*t game - you need to lay off the Mars Bars."

He only ever booked me if I swore directly at him and he thought I meant it.

Another good ref was Italian Pierluigi Collina.

Before I met him, everyone kept saying, "Don't f*** with him - he'll send you straight off."

The first time he reffed me was in front of 80,000 fans. He called me over, reached into his pocket and I thought, "Sh*t, I'm off here," but he just pulled out a packet of chewing gum and said, "Here, have one of these and shut the f*** up."

The worst was definitely Dougie Smith in Scotland - the fella who booked me for picking up his yellow card and holding it up during a game for Rangers - because he'd never talk to players. He'd just shout, "Go away," and when he wanted you, he'd point.

Played

These days, refs are under so much scrutiny. The problem is, most have never played the game.

They should sit down with ex-players and watch clips of incidents to help work out the difference between a foul and a dive.

Maybe I should be a ref!

It'll take more than my pranks to cheer up New York...

MOTHER Nature can be so f***ing cruel sometimes - just look at Superstorm Sandy.

I was glued to the telly last week watching footage of the places in America that have been badly hit.

So far, it's killed about 100 people and caused damage of £30 billion. It's destroyed so many buildings and homes in New York - it's such a shame.

I always say there's Earth and then there's New York, because it's like another planet.

It's one of my favourite places in the world and I feel so sorry for everyone who lives there. I've seen first-hand how powerful the weather can be - and it f***ing scared me!

When I was in treatment in Tucson, Arizona, there was a tornado. I watched this whirlwind from 50 yards away, lifting bits of trees out of the ground and throwing them all over. Then, two days later, someone said, "We're gonna have a monsoon."

The rain didn't bother me that much because it was so hot, but the wind was horrendous. It was lifting heavy metal tables and chairs up into the air and over the building I was in. All we could do was sit and pray. It was unbelievable.

It was almost Christmas, but everyone was sitting in the lounge, feeling a bit down after the monsoon, so I thought I'd try my best to cheer them up with one of my pranks. I took about 1,000 lights from the tree and wrapped them around my body, neck and head.

I put two of the bulbs on my eyes and a lampshade on my head and stood in the corner. But some clever bastard plugged them in and switched them on.

Nightmare

I'm not kidding, the electric shock was so big I nearly went through the f***ing roof!

Two members of staff came in and went, "Are you for real?" They thought I was trying to top myself, so I had to spend the next two weeks on 24-hour suicide watch! It was a f***ing nightmare. I said, "Come on, think about it - if I was going to kill myself, would I really do it like this?"

It was pretty funny, but somehow I think it'll take more than one of my pranks to put a smile back on the face of someone who's lost their home due to Superstorm Sandy.

The New Yorkers have had to deal with some horrendous things in recent years - like 9/11 - and I'm sure that if any community can come back from this, it's them.

In future, I'll certainly think twice before moaning about the British weather.

CROSS-DRESSING might cost Alex Reid (above) his marriage - but it helped me!

You can't pick up a magazine at the moment without reading how Chantelle Houghton has dumped her fella for dressing as a woman and doing kinky stuff.

When I was at Rangers, we'd just won the league and the boss, Walter Smith, had arranged for us to celebrate together.

We met at the ground at 12pm. I said, "Look lads, the press will follow me, so I'll shake them off and meet you in the pub."

There were four or five photographers following me. I drove right to the top of a multi-storey car park and ran into the shopping centre, went into a clothes shop and said, "Right, I need some clothes."

Stripped

They looked and me and went, "But this is a women's shop," so I stripped off and said, "Now I really need some clothes."

They were pissing themselves as I tried on stilettos, a blonde wig and make-up.

I walked out, past the paparazzi, and when I got to the pub, I just sat at the bar. The lads were only five yards away, but none of them had recognised me!

Defender Gordon Petric walked over and put his hand on my thigh and was about to chat me up when I heard the lads say, "Where's Gazza?" so I whipped the wig off and shouted, "I'm here!"

Gordon f***ing sh*t his pants. I've probably still got the outfit somewhere if Alex is interested!

Butty a gem for Jimmy

A CHIPPY in New York is selling a 1,200-calorie deep fried battered sandwich with a full English breakfast filling.

That would be a between-meals snack for my mate Jimmy Five Bellies.

I once told I'd pay him £1,000 if he put on a stone in a week.

He shovelled every bit of food he could get his hands on into his cakehole, and put on 12½ pounds - less than 2lbs short!

Poor Jimmy was f***ing gutted.

He missed out on a grand, but he got a couple of new tyres!

These days he's on a peach diet - he eats everything bar peaches!

Fur f***'s sake, what's that?

WHAT the f*** is a Furby?

Apparently, it's the must-have present for kids this Christmas!

I've never even heard of a Furby. When I was a kid, all I ever asked for was a new football - even when all my mates were desperate for go-karts - and thankfully, a new football's what I usually got.

My mam and dad never had much money, so I used to find some wood and rope and make my own go-kart.

I remember, I used a wheel from an old bike for my steering wheel. It looked class!

But I wasn't much of an engineer, and as I headed downhill the steering wheel locked. I went flying over a wall and broke my arm.

I should've just stuck to the football!

HIGH-scoring games are great to watch but horrible to play in - if you're on the losing side!

I felt sorry for the Reading players after Arsenal beat them 7-5 this week. I know what it's like - when I was 17 and playing for Newcastle, we got hammered 8-1 by West Ham. I was gutted!

The funniest thing was that Alvin Martin scored a hat-trick, with goals against three different keepers! He put one past Martin Thomas, who went off injured, another past replacement Chris Hedworth and his third past Peter Beardsley who went in when Chris was hurt.

We got a battering that day - and that was just before the boss, Willie McFaul, got to us!

IT'LL be cold and drizzly tomorrow – it usually is on Bonfire Night. Not that it matters much, not if you've got the right kit on.

The stuff I wear guarantees fireworks with my fella. And with a sausage in my mouth and a couple of hot spuds in my hands, I'm soon as warm as toast, believe me!

Pa-PHEW-a New Guinea!

PRINCE Charles got a sight for PHWOAR eyes when he landed in Papua New Guinea for an official visit and was decked in a garland by a TOPLESS beauty.

The Prince of Wales and Camilla touched down at Jacksons International Airport in the island's capital Port Moresby and were greeted by cheering crowds.

Papua New Guinea was the last part of the world where cannibalism was regularly practised though locals nowadays "hardly ever" eat other people.

SHAME

THE blessing of children is rightly seen as an honour by all right-thinking people. But for others, children appear to be nothing more than a brake on their wanton existences.

One such couple are Martin and Glenda Harris of unlovely Crewe in the otherwise-godly county of Cheshire.

Lured to a short break of hedonism in the resort of Towyn, the feckless pair ABANDONED two of their brood in a PUB while they scuttled off to the North Wales Riviera.

Little Shannisse and Tyler spent THREE DAYS in the care of "Dirty Ali", landlady of a common hostelry, while Martin and Glenda drank themselves witless with cheap cider.

We left our kiddies down the pub for THREE days ... it did them no harm

NAME: Nicholas Saunders
SHAME: Dog shagger

THERE are times when Britain's criminal justice system makes one weep with frustration.

One such time was when Nicholas Saunders escaped jail for the revolting crime of SEX with his ex-wife's bull mastiff.

Despite DNA evidence and the eyewitness testimony of the ex, Kelly Thacker, Saunders had the temerity to deny his crimes.

The judge at Gloucester Crown Court said Saunders needed to "address" his "distorted" sexual thinking after he was found guilty.

Saunders needs to be surviving on bread and water, THAT'S what he needs to be doing.

NAME: Alan Fopps
SHAME: Trained monkey to scratch his balls

IS THIS BRITAIN'S LAZIEST MAN? I BOUGHT MONKEY TO SCRATCH MY BALLS

OUR fine land is being dragged into the Third World by a shiftless army of idlers who genuinely believe the world owes them living.

Dubbed the "Sultan of Sloth", 45-year-old Alan Fopps used his generous benefits to buy a MONKEY who was put to work opening lager, fetching crisps and even scratching his master's BALLS!

Shellsuit-wearing Fopps bragged: "I'm going to train the little bleeder to wipe my arse next."

Alas, the case was NOT picked up by Work and Pensions Secretary Iain Duncan Smith who is battling to take benefits from such wretched layabouts.

NAME: Various yobs
SHAME: Hanging dwarfs from lampposts

BRITAIN prides itself on being a kind and gentle country.

Try telling that to three-foot-five Eddie Atkins who was set upon by a gang of hooligans and hung from a LAMP POST.

Dangling 20 feet from the ground in Manchester's godless Ardwick district, Eddie was helpless for TEN HOURS before the authorities effected a rescue.

Eddie said: "They hung me like a Christmas decoration and left me to dangle."

"The bastards!"

OF BRITAIN

LAST week five million people watched the Pride of Britain Awards where the unsung heroes of our nation are given the recognition they deserve.

The brave, the selfless and the inspirational were given their awards at a glittering ceremony attended by Prince Charles and hosted by former Countdown totty Carol Vorderman.

in a country that too often seems obsessed with shallow celebrity and petty bickering.

But as well as pride, our country should feel SHAME.

For among the everyday heroes there lurk rogues and rascals who drag the once-imperial good name of the United Kingdom through the mud of ignominy.

Today, we present the annual Sunday Sport Shame of Britain awards.

PRIDE: Pierce Brosnan, Carol Vorderman and Prince Charles at the awards

NAME: Barry Goran
SHAME: Simon Cowell stalker

SOMETIMES the gods conspire to rid us of those too wretched to live in civilised society.

Such happy circumstance occurred in the case of oddball Barry Goran who breathed his last while engaged in a sex act with a PEDAL BIN.

SIMON COWELL STALKER KILLED DURING SEX WITH PEDAL BIN

X Factor boss said to be 'saddened but relieved' at news of tragic accident

Goran, 38, became obsessed with poly-thene-faced X Factor boss Simon Cowell and it believed he was acting out some warped sexual fantasy when he expired.

The official version was that Goran had been overcome by cleaning fluid fumes. The real reason is that this wrongdoer was just too odd to live in a decent society.

NAME: Mystery patient
SHAME: Cheese lover

OH CHEES-US - THAT MUST HURT!

MAN HAS 14 BABYBEL UP HIS BUM

IT would not be an exaggeration to state that Babybel has revolutionised the world of cheese.

The idea of containing a small piece of cheese in its own wax jacket made the dairy product more portable than ever before.

But it also brought cheese to the attention of PERVERTS. One such animal inserted 14 of the dear little cheeses into his BOTTOM, one imagines for a sex thrill.

Inevitably, the freak called on the services of our hard-pressed NHS to rescue him from his perverted misfortune.

NAME: Barney Phillips
SHAME: Broke back to appear at Paralympics

LOON LEAPT FROM ROOF 'TO QUALIFY FOR PARALYMPICS'
Oddball's broken back bid for ticket to Rio

PERHAPS the most inspirational event held in Britain over the past 12 months, the Paralympics brought a billion tears to delighted eyes.

But Barney Phillips saw not triumph over adversity - he saw an opportunity for fame and fortune.

Being able-bodied, the 32-year-old was not eligible for the Paralympics which will be held in four years' time in Rio. So the scoundrel leapt from a pub roof to cripple himself.

Thankfully the ploy failed - and Phillips won't be joining our REAL Olympians in Brazil.

NAME: Grzegorz Suliga
SHAME: Horse bummer

OVER the millennia, mankind has marched towards the bright light of civilisation on the broad, strong back of the horse.

For some, alas, this relationship has become rather TOO close and over the years, some men - perverts, we call them - have taken horses for sexual partners.

One such violator was Grzegorz Suliga who engaged in carnality with a horse in a field in Oswaldtwistle, Lancs.

A witness spotted the act while watching TV in his conservatory and summoned the constabulary. In the end, Suliga escaped jail for his crime.

MAN vs TOILET!

Curry king pays price

A MAN who scoffed the world's hottest curry says the ordeal left him with bleeding EYEBALLS...and a bumhole to match!

Brave Paul Jeffrey won the annual 'Kismot Killer' food challenge last week, devouring a naga chilli-laden dish in just 15 seconds.

But triumphant champ Paul, 23, says the experience played havoc with his eyes after he accidentally got the fiery sauce in his peepers.

The competition – a British take on top telly show Man vs Food – also left Paul with stomach cramps, sweats ...and a hefty air fresher bill.

The refrigeration engineer, who is from South Queensferry, Edinburgh, told Sunday Sport: "I stupidly used my napkin to mop my face and got sauce in my eyes.

"It was agony! The red sauce, mixed with my sweat and tears, made it look like my eyes were bleeding.

"I had to rub butter into my eyes to take the swelling down."

Paul says he also downed five glasses of milk and yoghurt to make sure no damage was done internally.

He added: "My bum was a bit sore the next day, but luckily it hurt more going in than it did coming out!"

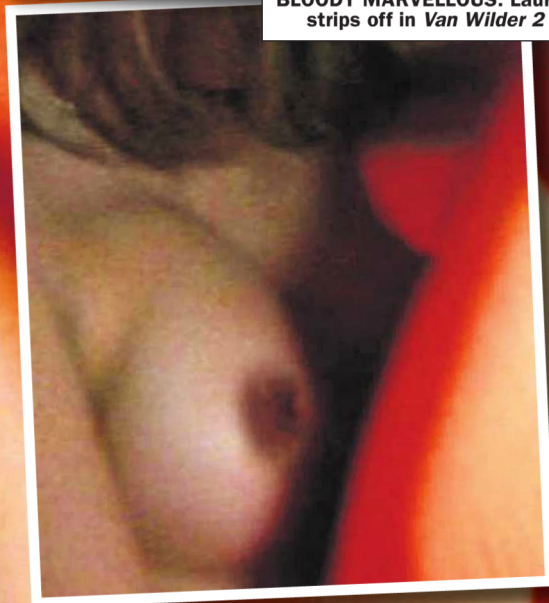

Abdul Ali, owner of Edinburgh's Kismot Indian Restaurant and organiser of the annual curry comp, makes contestants sign a form warning of the dangers of DEATH from eating his hellish £20 dish – which uses chillies 270 times hotter than a jalapeno.

He also had medics on standby and made his chef wear a mask while making the meal.

Paul won a £50 voucher for his feat and fared better than last year's contestants, who were hospitalised!

DEAD GORGEOUS

Sexy star of hit zombie apocalypse drama as you WON'T see her on TV

WALKING Dead babe Lauren Cohan gave fans a STIFF after whipping her kit off in saucy topless movie scenes.

Gorgeous Lauren is currently covering TV screens in a hefty portion of gore thanks to her role as Maggie Greene in the zombie slaying FX show.

Slice

Her character is fast becoming a dab hand with a machete, as she and Walking Dead boyfriend Glenn – aka actor Steven Yeun – slice and dice their way through an army of reanimated corpses.

And viewers will be reaching for their own choppers when they see our snaps of Lauren in action!

The 29-year-old aired her pert and perfect boobs in 2006 comedy Van Wilder 2: The Rise of Taj.

In the movie she plays Charlotte, an uptight Cambridge University student who's taught how to make the most of her time there by a wild history don.

Meanwhile Walking Dead fans will be hoping Lauren will survive the show's ever-increasing death rate as characters get killed off left, right and centre.

She explained: "I think in the last season Maggie was ready to be involved in something and she didn't quite know what her challenge was going to be.

"So now, by the time we get to Season Three, the way that she can contribute and fight is very apparent.

"Maggie has always been a woman of strong instinct, now she's acting on that."

Philadelphia-born Lauren is also an honorary Brit, having studied Drama and English Literature at the University of Winchester, Hampshire.

Coming for a Stag Night? Here, read a book on sex!

STAG and hen groups visiting a party town should be given 'sex packs' to reduce the number of people catching the clap, says a top cop candidate.

The free kits would contain condoms, a book on safe sex and taxi numbers.

Police and crime commissioner hopeful Martyn Underhill believes there should also be a clampdown on hotels cramming revellers into rooms.

The retired cop wrote on his website blog the packs will help make sure drunken revellers get home safer and reduce the amount of sexually transmitted diseases caught in Bournemouth, Dorset.

He wrote: "I want every member of a group arriving in Bournemouth to receive a pack."

"This pack will outline safe sex, contain a condom, explain about drink spiking, have taxi numbers and a map of the town, all things that can help you not to become a victim."

He added: "Binge drinking leads to casual sex and STIs so the packs should include a condom and some information too."

Nick King, the Tory candidate for the job, reckons the idea is offensive.

He said: "People would rather money be spent on active policing instead of condoms."

SHOCK EXCLUSIVE

SKYFALL'S DAME JUDI WATCHED CORRIE NIGEL BONK A SEX DOLL

M-BARRASSED: Dame Judi was stunned by smoothie Nigel's lewd act with rubber sex toy

SPYFULL: Dame Judi in her role as Bond's boss in latest outing

Affleck: Why I f@#$ing hate C4 Homeland

FUMING film star Ben Affleck says he "f***ing hates" top telly show Homeland – because he stupidly snubbed the opportunity to direct it!

The actor-director says seeing the huge success of the Channel 4 series makes him green with envy.

The 40-year-old (above) star, who is back on the big screen next week with new movie Argo, revealed: "I was sure nothing would happen with the show. Now I hate the f***ing show."

"I've never seen it. I'm going to attach myself to 14 pilots this year."

CAT-CHING COLD!

CARING Alfie Roach, five, shut pet cat Gyp in the fridge at his home in Reading, Berks, "so she wouldn't be scared by fireworks." The cat died.

JAMES Bond star Dame Judi Dench was left shaken and stirred as she watched Corrie smoothie Nigel Havers have SEX with a BLOW-UP DOLL!

Nigel, 62 – who plays Lewis Archer in the ITV1 soap – was appearing in theatre with Judi, now 77, and the late Anna Massey when he gave them an eyeful of him scuttling the rubber woman.

The Chariots of Fire star performed the lewd act in a bid to stop the pair spying on him.

In his autobiography, Playing With Fire, he wrote, "Every time I looked up from my little desk in front of my little mirror to look out of my little window, I'd see them pointing, or just poking their noses in my direction".

By JOHN FITZPATRICK
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Keen to teach both Judi and Anna a lesson, Nigel told his dresser Ralph, "We have to do something outrageous."

"I think it should be of a sexual nature. We know how much that will outrage the dear things".

"Ralph purchased a life-size blow-up doll, complete with pubic hair. When she was fully inflated, I introduced her to a small but over-excited audience".

After making sure Judi and Anna were watching, Nigel says, "I kissed her, I fondled her and I finally disappeared out of sight inside her". "Using the blow-up doll I was able to ensure that Judi and Anna needed medical attention. Point made".

Dame Judi recovered from the shock enough to make the role of Bond's MI6 chief M her own, since taking over the job in 1995 in GoldenEye.

Her latest outing is as Daniel Craig's boss in blockbuster Skyfall.

Earlier this year it emerged that Street favourite Havers had signed a new contract to stay with the show – putting an end to rumours he was off.

Fans thought conman charmer Lewis was about to meet his doom after Nigel decided to head off to do pantomime next month.

He had scored a hit in 2011's Christmas Special episode of Downton Abbey, but Corrie chiefs have managed to keep the actor on the books.

Nigel will return to the cobbles in the New Year with an ideal storyline for Lewis...yet another elderly love interest!

A STRIPPER headbutted another dancer and branded her "a whore" after accusing her of stealing punters.

Maria Badea, 20, accused fellow stripper Gina Ciobotaru of taking cash off her clients at the French Pussycat Club in Soho, north London.

Badea called Miss Ciobotaru "a whore" in an argument over 'potential customers' before launching the attack last month.

Usha Shergill, prosecuting, told Southwark Crown Court: "Without any warning, she headbutted Miss Ciobotaru."

Badea, of West Hampstead, north London, pleaded guilty to assault causing actual bodily harm and was released on bail.

She will be sentenced later.

Williams's defence said he'd needed somewhere to stay.

The 46-year-old, of no fixed address, was jailed for 28 months, after he admitting burgling the bungalow in Leicester in March.

The REAL reason badgers must DIE...

THEY'RE DIGGING UP THE DEAD!

GHOULISH: 'Cuddly' badger wants to dig up YOUR late loved ones

By SIMON DEAN

simon@sundaysport.co.uk

LAST month bunny-huggers and beardies celebrated after the Government announced it was postponing a badger cull.

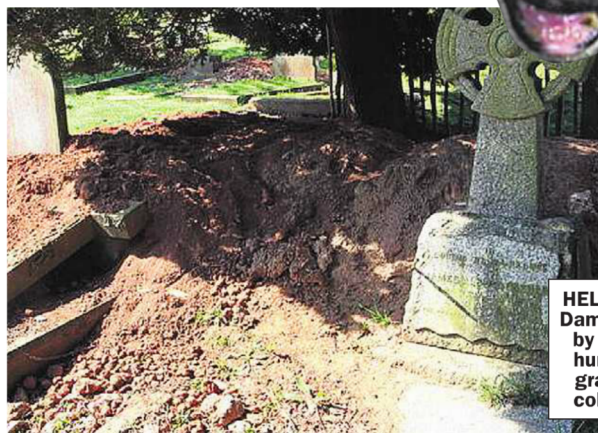

But one wonders how loudly these militant animal lovers would have been cheering if their GRANDMA had just been dug from her final resting place by Brock and his pals.

Or if bands of juvenile badgers had been gnawing the cold bones of a much-loved auntie.

Bloodbath

Because that's what's happening in churchyards up and down Britain, where the unfeeling beasts are using their powerful limbs to dig up the DEAD!

Nigel Starke, of pressure group Badger Bloodbath Now – which presses for the eradication of the species – raged: "When I heard that the Government had called off the cull I thought to myself 'That's it – the badgers have won!'"

HELL HOLES: Damage done by badgers hunting for grandma's cold bones

"Not content with giving all our cattle whooping cough and polio or whatever it is they spread, now these pests have taken to invading graveyards and literally digging up dead bodies – for FUN, as far as I can make out."

"What kind of zombie sickos are these? Badgers are not the wise, kind creatures the fairytales would have us believe. They are pure evil."

The latest case of badger grave desecration occurred in Arncliffe, Inverness-shire, where the nocturnal animals are being held responsible for pushing bones to the surface.

The human remains were spotted by worshippers at the 130-year-old burial plot at Arncliffe Church.

Rev James MacInnes, of the Free Church of Scotland, said: "It is distressing to see this happen. It's difficult to know how to deal with the badger problem."

Villager Willie MacLeod, 72, said: "I would have them shot. What a mess they've made in local gardens and in the graveyard by coming out at night and burrowing for food."

"You dare not get too close to them as they would kill any dog and take the arm off a man with their strong jaws and claws."

Boozed-up bum grope pervert gets banged up

A DRUNK man who groped a woman's bum as she queued for the bus, just weeks after being cautioned for a similar assault, has been jailed.

Vitali Mironov, 25, shoved his hand up his frightened victim's skirt as she stood with friends at a bus stop in central London.

He had downed a bottle of vodka before the assault on July 17.

Latvian Mironov had been cautioned for a similar sexual assault on March 30.

Prosecutor Gavin Ludlow-Thompson told Southwark Crown Court: "He approached her from behind and put his right hand partly under her skirt, on her tights, over her buttocks."

"He appeared to be wiggling a finger as if, in the victim's words, he was trying to get further towards more sensitive areas."

He was arrested on another bus after being filmed by witnesses on their mobile phones.

Mironov, of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to one count of sexual assault and was jailed for six months.

DO you like my hotpants? They never seem to go out of fashion, do they – not as far as men are concerned, anyway.

I love showing off my sexy bottom and like them as tight as possible.

They have the same effect as stockings and suspenders on a bloke, I've found.

I don't get why – but I don't care, either, so long as it keeps them keen!

A SCHOOL janitor is suing for £50,000, claiming a string of pranks by pupils ended with her slipping on steps which had been smeared with Vaseline.

Linda Mary Gillie suffered head and leg injuries and needed hospital treatment as a result of the end-of-year "joke", it's claimed.

Lawyers for the 53-year-old allege a long history of practical jokes by sixth formers at the Galashiels Academy.

The same year, an English teacher was sprayed with sardines hidden in a hand-drier, court papers say.

Mrs Gillie's lawyers claim Scottish Borders Council staff did too little to stop senior pupils playing the pranks and Mrs Gillie was seriously hurt as a result.

But the council are fighting the case and deny knowledge of previous incidents.

The council's lawyers claim that the £50,000 sought is "excessive".

As Labour leader accuses Clarkson of mocking loonies, SUNDAY Sport asks...

ARE YOU MAD?

By SIMON DEAN

simon@sundaysport.co.uk

ONE in four of us will suffer from some form of mental illness in our lives.

Be it addiction, depression or underpants-on-the-head barminess, the clammy hand of lunacy will brush many of our shoulders.

In a brave speech last week, Labour leader Ed Miliband described mental illness as the "biggest unaddressed health challenge of our age".

Taboo

He criticised some celebrities – such as Top Gear motormouth Jeremy Clarkson – for reinforcing the taboo around mental health and called for a culture change.

Sunday Sport salutes Ed's tackling of a subject that's been taboo for too long.

BONKERS: And Jezza (left) is bit loopy, too

Following his lead we grasp the nettle of mental illness with the help of a simple quiz asking...are YOU mad?

TAKE OUR TEST AND FIND OUT

YOU have a somewhat brighter, more personable brother. Do you:

a) Write his phone number on the door in a Brighton public toilet along with the message "For a good time call...". That'll show the bastard!

b) Sit back and applaud his success.

c) Manoeuvre yourself into the job your brother wants and is better-suited to, then laugh at his crushed ambition.

YOU notice nobody takes anything you say seriously. Do you:

a) Say "F*** 'em!"

b) Go all shy and keep your trap shut.

c) Get your adenoids done and carry on blathering the same old tripe.

ONE day you wake up and realise you are leader of the Labour Party. Do you put this down to:

a) A f*** up at Labour Party HQ.

b) Unions backing you after deciding you are a spineless amoeba who will do their bidding without question.

c) The Labour membership deciding you are far and away the best man for the post of Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition.

YOU are at an awards ceremony for people who have performed amazing feats of bravery. Do you:

a) Fill your boots at the free bar.

b) Quietly admire the everyday courage of British people.

c) Sign autographs outside the venue like a f***ing half-arsed cast member from TOWIE.

YOU make a speech about a very important issue of public policy and have been given a platform by a respected organisation.

Do you use this opportunity to:

a) Tell fart gags.

b) Make a detailed and well-argued speech.

c) Use the opportunity to have a pop at a popular TV presenter who is pals with the Prime Minister but is hated among your elite north London dinner party set.

SIGNS: Ed

HOW DID YOU DO?

Mostly a) You are a perfectly normal and well-adjusted member of society. Mostly b) You are a bit of a creep and probably sit down to piss. Mostly c) Christ on a bike! You are f***ing hatstand! Doctors call this condition Offhiseddus Milibandus. Symptoms include a delusion that you one day might be Prime Minister.

Sewell on the art of w***ing

ART snoot Brian Sewell revealed he asked a nurse if he could W*NK while laid up in hospital after a heart attack.

The 81-year-old art critic for the London Evening Standard has released a second volume of memoirs – which includes an account of his first thombo in 1994.

While recovering in a London hospital, he said: "A nurse came with instructions not to eat red meat, chocolate or oysters and not to have sex."

"I asked her, 'Am I allowed to masturbate?'"

"To this she made the sort of whimper-cum-splutter that a maiden aunt might make and scuttled off, puffing with affront."

After returning home he adds: "I went to bed and very warily, almost enquiringly, I masturbated. It was an indication that I was still a man."

Beast porn perv pleads guilty

PERVERT Paul Horsley has admitted having 20 films and more than 550 pics of people engaging in sex acts with animals.

Horsley, 29, of Dursley, Glos, pleaded guilty at Stroud Magistrates Court to two charges of possessing extreme pornographic images involving animals.

He will be sentenced at Gloucester Crown Court on November 19.

I PUT THE WILLIES UP TRANNY ALEX

Nerd's kinky text stunned bisexual cagefight oddball

CUNNING PLAN: Fox was gutted his sexy image did not entice Alex/Roxy (far right)

A GAY sex text fan last night admitted HE may have been the one who "ripped apart" the world of Big Brother babe Chantelle Houghton.

Last week Chantelle, 29, revealed she'd found texts on ex Alex Reid's phone arranging sex trysts between mystery men and Alex's tranny alter ego Roxanne.

And bespectacled bumboy Brian Fox last night revealed HE was one of the blokes who texted the cross-dressing cage fighter.

But the 34-year-old computer programmer from Harlow in Essex says HE was left broken-hearted – because Alex/Roxanne IGNORED the invite for hot botty lust. Soft-spoken sodomite Brian explained: "A friend in the LGBT community gave me this number and said it was for a TV called Roxanne, better known as Alex Reid."

"She's just my type – big and burly but with just that touch of feminine vulnerability."

"Normally I meet up with lorry drivers on the A127 so I thought it would be a real treat to meet up for loveless fellatio with a real-life star."

"I texted with a naked picture of myself, fully expecting a reply from Roxanne. But I heard nothing. I was hurt by

By SIMON DEAN
simon@sundaysport.co.uk

the snub, obviously. I think my suggestion may have been too hot to handle. I think I scared him off. It's a shame Chantelle saw the texts, though."

"I've not been sleeping with the worry, to be honest. It's awful to find myself in the middle of this very public squabble."

The world learned of Alex's secret text life when Chantelle made an astonishing outburst on Twitter, claiming he turned their house into a "sex dungeon".

The reality star also said cross-dressing cage fighter Alex – previously married to Katie Price – had orgies with hookers. Chantelle gave her own version of the events that had led to the couple's recent split.

She tweeted: "When I was eight months pregnant Alex turned my house into a sex dungeon."

"Not forgetting the hookers he was texting that he'd had orgies with. Whole world was ripped apart in an instant."

"I've texted the guy who he was arranging to meet and told him what I think of him too. F***ing sick dragging me into this."

SPLITTERS: Chantelle and Alex in happier times

IT'S DANIEL BEDING-FEEL-D

Pop hunk in NAKED romp for new vid

POP crooner Daniel Bedingfield and a sexy co-star bare all in his new video Secret Fear.

Sharp-eyed girl fans even get to see his PECKER – but fellas will be more interested in the bouncing boobs of his feisty female pal in the four-and-a-half minute promo.

The single, a mostly acoustic ballad, is the latest release from the singer who topped the charts with his debut effort Gotta Get Through This in 2002.

The new video sees Bedingfield and the naked woman kiss and embrace in a washing machine-like container which throws the naked couple around – revealing lots of flesh.

Later in the clip,

Daniel is stabbed by his female companion, with the water turning to blood.

Fans of Bedders are less than impressed, though. Comments on fan forums include: "I adore your music but the video is not to my taste."

Another poster said: "The language and the nudity are both wrong."

Classic Quo line-up for UK tour

ROCK veterans Status Quo are to reunite their classic original line-up for a series of shows next year, they have announced.

The band will play a five-date tour as the four main figures who scored a string of hits in the early 1970s get back together.

All four (above) were in the group when they adopted their name in 1967, and featured on their breakthrough Top 10 hit Pictures Of Matchstick Men.

The band members – Francis Rossi, Rick Parfitt, Alan Lancaster and John Coghlan – will play live together for the first time in three decades.

Frontmen Rossi and Parfitt have carried on under the name but the others left the line-up in the 1980s.

This year also marks 50 years since Rossi and Lancaster first formed a group.

The band became known for hits such as Rocking All Over The World, Down Down and Caroline.

Tickets for the shows, in Glasgow, Manchester, Wolverhampton and London in March, go on sale on November 16.

Rubbish textbook hasn't got a prayer

A GCSE religious studies textbook on Judaism was illustrated with a MUSLIM praying!

The book is also so littered with errors that a school produced its own FOUR-PAGE leaflet of corrections.

Religious Studies A: Judaism was produced for the AQA exam board by publishers, Nelson Thornes.

Staff at the Jewish Free School, in Kenton, north west London, have listed the mistakes for their GCSE pupils.

One angry parent raged: "The textbook contains countless errors and general, confused assertions about Judaism. The factual errors are laughably bad."

"A section headed 'Reform Judaism' in fact talks about the practice of Orthodox Jews. A picture of a person kneeling in prayer, described as a Jew, is a Muslim."

A spokesperson for the exam board said: "AQA doesn't publish textbooks. We do liaise with publishers to try to ensure references to our syllabus are accurate, however the publisher is responsible for the content of the book and, therefore, any errors."

"JFS brought the errors to our attention and we raised them with the publisher."

Cops' go-ahead for pub to find ugliest 'women'

A PUB holding a contest to find the 'Ugliest Woman' got a visit from cops after someone reported them for sexism.

The unknown snitch demanded that the competition be cancelled and wanted the boozer's owners prosecuted.

However, when police arrived at the Islay Inn in Glasgow they gave manager George Hogg the nod after finding it was a competition for MEN dressed in drag.

George told of his disbelief at the complaint and accused the protestor of being "over-the-top politically correct".

He said: "I've no idea who made the complaint and the police wouldn't tell me - but if he or she had bothered to read the ad, they would have realised that it was not ugly women we were looking for but ugly men dressed up as women."

"The first we knew of a problem was when two female police officers came in."

The pub is offering a £50 prize for tonight's ugliest 'woman', though Strathclyde Police confirmed an inquiry into the complaint is still ongoing.

Prince 'shocked to the core' as babe lets fly with queef* in controversial TV show

By RACHEL SPENCER
rachel@sundaysport.co.uk

THIS is the shocking FANNY FART scene that had Prince Charles choking on his foie gras during outrageous TV show The Valleys.

The Prince of Wales was so stunned to see hairdresser Nicole Morris doing a front bum pump he's BANNED it from his home, Clarence House.

Two weeks ago we told how the Charles, 63, and his sons William, 30, and Harry, 28, were huge fans of the Welsh show.

But the future King hit the roof after watching Nicole's intimate wind on the last programme in the series.

A Palace insider said: "After the fanny fart he's told his boys he doesn't want to hear any more about it. He was shocked to the core."

On last week's show, Carley Belmonte, 21, made up a rap about her female housemates that climaxed in Nicole's love pump.

Fans of the hit show have since pleaded with MTV bosses to bring back the fanny-farting minx for the second series.

Hollie Dixon tweeted: "I think @ NicoleValleys is hilarious with her fanny farts! Ha ha :)"

Also on Tuesday's episode, gay DJ Liam Powell got a lap-dance from two topless lovelies and jealous housemate Darren Chidgey, 25, fumed: "They're only all over him because he's f***ing paying."

DON'T think I'm flagging, just because I'm stretched out on a Union Jack.

I love my country's flag and there's no doubt about it, it's the best in the world.

I'm worried that if the people of Scotland vote to break up the United Kingdom we'll have to lose the blue bit of it, which'd be sad.

So we'd just have to keep it anyway, I reckon – why not?

Uranus lovers in dogging hotspot hell

ANGRY stargazers have called in the police after a layby near their observatory was invaded by DOGGERS.

Cops are now staking out the area after the astronomers complained about queues of traffic waiting to get 'a slot'.

A member of the Croydon Astronomical Society – known only as AstroJohn – who works near the dogging site in Kenley, south London, said: "The sex sessions are normally in the secluded lay-by area."

"Police should be aware as we have told them about this in the past."

Local Simon Lawson, 43, said: "Every time you drive past that lay-by you see cars queuing up to get a slot."

"The police need to go there on a Saturday night and just nick everyone there."

"It won't be hard to catch them – they'll have their pants around their ankles."

A police spokesman said they are investigating the complaints.

WELL WORTH TAKING UP THE AISLE, JAMIE!

WEDDING BELLE:
Evan and Jamie got hitched

EXPOSED: Evan naked in Across The Universe and (inset) with Manson

THE ex of bum-fun fan Marilyn Manson now has Billy Elliot star Jamie Bell's ring on her finger!

Newlywed Jamie, 26, has a lot to live up to, as it's rumoured Evan Rachel Wood's former fella is hung like a HIPPOPOTAMUS.

The couple married last week in California after first meeting on the set of a Green Day video back in 2005.

The couple split after dating for a year and in January 2007 it emerged that Evan had gone from clean-cut Jamie to less-wholesome rocker Marilyn Manson.

Manson's reputation preceded him – his porn star ex Jenna

By SIMON DEAN
simon@sundaysport.co.uk

Jameson claimed he was more than a fan of bum sex, adding: "He was too big to go there. "He wanted to f*** me in the ass a little too much for my liking."

Cheese

"Every time we were naked, he'd be going for my butt like a rat to cheese."

"He was obsessed with anal. He even tried it the first time we went to bed."

True Blood star Evan, 25, and Manson split in 2010 and romance finally blossomed for her and Jamie.

As if to confirm her new, raunchier image,

Evan also appeared in the altogether in 2007's Across The Universe where she even romped nude underwater in one scene.

Jamie has become one of Britain's biggest stars since making his breakthrough in Billy Elliot back in 2000.

Growing up in the North East of England, the dancer shot to fame after being chosen from 2,000 hopefuls to play the successful ballet-dancing-son of a coal miner.

He soon swapped his hometown of Billingham for Hollywood and went on to star in King Kong, Jumper and The Adventures Of Tintin.

IN THE KNOW WITH MIKE STARR

BRITAIN'S No.1 SHOWBIZ COLUMN

SELF-CONFESSED "pop slag" NIDDY VURGE got "pie-eyed" last weekend – but for once it was nothing to do with the showbiz Tizer.

Niddy, ex of THE CHUFF drummer FRANK SLOTT, was judging at the CATTERICK PASTRY FAIR!

In the end, she stuck the winner's rosette on a vegetable flan, which surprised many – as Niddy's known to be fond of her MEAT! OOF!

BOING! TV carpentry guru DEREK SLOOF is going at it hammer and tongs – and we ain't talking about in his workshop!

Derek, who presents the station's DIY show SCREW YOU!, is apparently romancing scary she-Satan DELORES POPPINGREW.

It's a change of pace for Delores, who recently split from Yank death-screach rocker NUDGE FRANKEL – but she says she LOVES Derek's spanners!

TOO late for anyone who was after tickets for the HUNCH FESTIVAL in Billericay next weekend – they're all sold out!

Spew-fiddlers KUNSTBATT will headline Hunchfest this year, and it's thought that fans from the band's native Rutland swamped the festival's website and snapped up all the tickets.

The forecast's for rain but organiser PAPHIDES KOLOXOS says that they can move into the village hall in case it gets too soggy.

Teas included, of course!

YOU won't guess who was seen striding down the High Street in Ledbury on Wednesday...BILLY TISSHE!

The former frontman of JINGLE JANGLE was thought to have fled to the South Seas after that unpleasantness in Abersoch, but now he's back and large as life.

Let's just hope that certain vigilantes from the Beccles area don't get a fix on Billy's whereabouts...oops, too late! My bad! Not!

TAKE one popstrel fresh out of rehab and a former teacher who's banned from the profession for 15 years and what have you got? Only the most unlikely coupling in showbiz land – that's what!

Troublesome TINKLE MAJOR has just spent 13 weeks "resting" at showbiz retreat THE VOICES in Smattering after overdoing the party scene.

And it seems she's just teamed up with a mysterious MR PHILLIPS from Birmingham whose shameful exit from the classroom "had a lot to do with woodwork".

I'VE BEEN TO HULL AND BACK!

Boozy toff Piers caught in real-life Derren Brown Apocalypse prank

By SIMON DEAN

simon@sundaysport.co.uk

WHEN pals of posh Piers Vandergrout saw Derren Brown's chilling Apocalypse stunt on a television set last week, they hit on a wizard jape to play on their chum.

They spiked the Oxford undergrad's Pimms with knockout drug Rohypnol, bundled him into a car and headed north.

Dazed Piers, 20, awoke with a hangover and looked about – and was convinced the world had ended...

Because he came round in the middle of a rough housing estate in HULL!

Devastation

Now safely back in the cloisters of St Onan's College, ghastly toff Piers – who comes from a good Hampshire family – brayed: "Oh! My! God!"

"I've woken up in some pretty strange places, I can tell you – I did go to Eton, you know."

"But when I opened my eyes that morning it was to face a scene of, like, utter devastation, Mmm?"

"There were houses that looked like bombs had hit them, cars ablaze, women in pyjamas in the street, their hair, like, filthy and mangy-looking dogs snuffling through garbage, OK?"

"With my head still woozy, I thought the world had surely ended. It was a terrifying panorama of devastation, yah?"

"I tried to ask these people where I was and all I got in reply was some guttural grunting. I've no idea what language it was – I've not heard anything like it since, like, my gap year in Peru. Cool."

"I was, like, beginning to panic and shit and my phone rang and it was like Toby Maltravers, who was

ARMA-KIDDIN': Posh Toff Piers thought that the world had ended when his chums dropped him off in Humberside at Eton with me, and he was like, 'HAAAAAAAAAAAAA!'

"Oh my god! It was like a prank and I was in this place called Hull or something and the world hadn't ended."

"Those guys! They are just TOOOO much, yah!"

Viewers were gripped by Brown's mind-bending illusion on Channel 4 show Apocalypse, which saw him convince Steve Brosnan the world has been devastated by a meteorite.

A Channel 4 source said Derren Brown had no plans to set a follow-up show in Hull as it would be "too cruel" for TV.

PRANKS FOR THAT! Brown's end-of-the-world show had nothing on Hull (above, left)

We're role model for Beeb stars

By JUSTIN DUNN

justin@sundaysport.co.uk

SUNDAY Sport's status as a British institution was confirmed last week when we brought the house down on BBC2 quiz show QI.

Britain's breast newspaper was brought up by Geordie comic Ross Noble on an episode based on journalism.

We popped up when host Stephen Fry asked Noble and fellow panellists Shappi Khorsandi, Johnny Vegas and Alan Davies what kind of person would live in a "Daily Mail Model Village".

The village in question was a small group of houses in Welwyn Garden City, Herts, which was briefly sponsored by the rag in 1922.

SPORT FANS: Fry (left) and Noble

The village was not a success and had to be bailed out by the Garden City Company, which owned the surrounding land, after just three months.

It's now called Meadow Green.

Noble had the QI audience pissing themselves when he said that if Sunday Sport had sponsored the village, we'd have called it "Well In Garden City", adding: "Phwoar, check out the FRONT of those houses!"

"Double fronted! Look at the gates on that!"

And openly-gay Fry also had the audience in stitches as he butted in: "And there's always the BACK ALLEY!"

Colin hasn't got X Factor, says Walsh

POP guru Louis Walsh has revealed he once told top Hollywood star Colin Farrell he did not have the 'X Factor'.

The talent show judge was scathing about Irish actor Col when he auditioned for pop group Boyzone.

X Factor star Louis revealed: "I did say 'No' to Colin Farrell. He still laughs about it."

"He always looked the part and he was the boy around town."

"He sang - but he couldn't sing very well."

"He was a character. I said 'No, I don't think it's for you'."

And Louis even warned young Colin to steer clear of acting.

He added: "He said, 'Oh man, I want to be an actor anyway'."

"I said, 'Acting? Colin, you are wasting your time - it's too hard!'"

But Louis said he was thrilled that Colin proved him wrong and has gone on to be a major movie star in films such as Phonebooth and this year's Total Recall.

'Good Samaritan' flashed pensioner

A 79-YEAR-old woman was left traumatised by a "Good Samaritan" who flashed her.

Kevin Forrest, 49, had appeared to be just a nice fellow as he helped the pensioner carry her shopping bags to her front door, Blackburn magistrates heard.

But as she turned to thank him Forrest, who is a registered sex offender, had his trousers down exposing his genitals.

"She was terrified," said Catherine Allan, prosecuting. "All she wanted was to get into her flat as soon as possible."

Miss Allan said the victim was so traumatised she is now frightened to leave her home.

In June 2011, Forrest, of Heaton Street, Blackburn, was convicted of voyeurism after he tried to film a lady using a pub toilet.

He pleaded guilty to indecent exposure and is awaiting sentencing.

Zimmer frame abuser jailed

A MAN who breached his ASBO for chasing people with a ZIMMER FRAME has been jailed.

David Osberg, 63, hobbled after his latest victim, shouting "very abusive" language, in Truro, Cornwall.

He admitted two offences of using abusive language and annoying people in breach of an ASBO, at Truro Magistrates' Court, and was jailed for 12 weeks.

I HOPE you had a super spooky Halloween - I certainly did! I love getting dressed up and this year I went to a friend's party as a sexy bloodsucking vampire. Needless to say there were plenty of spirits on hand and I woke up the next morning really feeling like one on the undead. But it was worth it!

LUCY: MY SEX WITH RANDY GHOST

Sherlock Holmes babe was bonked by spook

By RACHEL SPENCER
rachel@sundaysport.co.uk

CLEVER Dick Lucy Liu has stunned fans by claiming she once had sex with a GHOST!

The actress, now in Sherlock Holmes show Elementary on Sky Living, said she feels haunted by the supernatural shagger who follows her everywhere.

Sultry Lucy, 43, who appears as detective sidekick Dr Joan Watson alongside Jonny Lee Miller's Sherlock, compared her experience to that of the Virgin Mary.

The former Charlie's Angel babe recalled: "I was sleeping on my futon, on the floor, and some sort of spirit came down from God knows where and made love to me. It was sheer bliss. I felt everything."

"I climaxed. And then he floated away. It was almost like what might have happened to Mary."

"I've never said anything to anyone about it until now, because I thought nobody would ever believe me."

"I feel like the spirit follows me everywhere. Isn't that weird?"

But Lucy says that when it comes to finding a real-life partner, she's not one to put off straight away.

She said: "You don't have to jump right into bed. I usually wait three or four months."

My word, Holmes, he ejaculated

Alsatian dog sex suspect collared by neighbours

A MAN has been arrested after being caught having sex with his neighbour's GERMAN SHEPHERD.

Kimberly Lawson, 40, was seen feeding the dog before pulling down his trousers.

He then got down on his knees and let the animal "mount him".

Police said: "The witness called another neighbour and asked him to look from his back window to see if he could get a view of Lawson in action."

"He saw Lawson engaged in sexual intercourse with Adam the Alsatian."

"The second witness said he observed the dog mounted on top of the suspect from a behind position and having sex."

It reportedly happened at least THREE times in an hour until the two men confronted Lawson and detained him, until cops arrived.

Adam's owner, Caroline Morris, thinks the abuse has been going on for a month, because he had been acting strange in Memphis, Tennessee.

Lawson is charged with a criminal offence against an animal.

Remember to have sex, Gran

PENSIONERS are less likely to lose their memory if they have sex into their SEVENTIES.

Regular romps keep the brain younger for longer, a study into the bed habits of 63 to 75-year-olds found.

Research leader Dr Peter Kropp said: "The results clearly show that staying active in later life – and this includes having sex – helps keep you cognitively active."

Three-quarters of OAPs in the Rostock University, Germany, study were happy with their sex lives.

10 THINGS YOU DIDN'T KNOW ABOUT...

STAR WARS

FANS of Star Wars are more excited than Jar Jar Binks on speed after a deal with Disney opened the door to at least three more films from the franchise.

Star Wars creator George Lucas has sold his Lucasfilm company to the owners of Mickey Mouse and Daffy Duck in a deal worth a whopping £1.5BILLION.

That means Episodes VII, VIII and IX will now be made, with the next instalment due in 2015.

There's no doubt that Star Wars is the most popular sci-fi series in history, but here are some facts you may not know about what happened long, long ago in a galaxy far, far away...

1 Battle scenes for the original Star Wars were not finished when the film was first shown to financial backers. WWII dogfight footage was cut in to give the general idea.

2 Made on a budget of just £5.5million Star Wars made £108million in the U.S. during its original release, and £170million in overseas sales. The final film in the franchise – Revenge of the Sith – cost around £70million to make.

3 The famous opening scroll for Star Wars was co-written by Brian De Palma, the director of Scarface. It begins "It is a period of civil war. Rebel spaceships, striking from a hidden base, have won their first victory against the evil Galactic Empire."

4 The Wookiee Chewbacca was inspired by George Lucas' beloved dog Indiana – an Alaskan Malamute.

5 Anthony Daniels was injured during his first outing as C-3PO when a leg piece fell off his gold costume and shattered – stabbing him in the foot.

6 In the scene where Han, Leia and Luke escape from the garbage compactor, watch the Stormtroopers rushing into the control room – one bashes his head on the door.

7 More than 250million small action figures were shipped in the eight years after the first film, going to countries across the world. In the first year alone 42million were sold.

8 Luke Skywalker was called Luke Starkiller in early drafts of the script.

9 In the opening scene of Raiders of the Lost Ark – also directed by George Lucas – Indy escapes with the golden idol in a seaplane with the registration number OB-3PO. This, of course refers to Obi-wan and C-3PO.

10 Lucas kept the fact that Darth Vader was Luke's father secret from the cast and crew until just before filming – making up a bizarre time-travel cover story that Luke was his OWN father.

MEN of Britain, have you all gone BLIND?

Because top-heavy scorcher Sammy Braddy reckons fellas NEVER tell her that she's got a fantastic set of boobs!

The 30GG beauty, who has probably the most perfect pair of breasts the world has ever seen, also says the UK's useless males never try to chat her up, either.

Sammy, who's from Colchester, Essex, revealed: "I think my boobs are big, round and pert – the best."

"You won't believe this, but no one ever comes up to me to mention them when I'm out!"

"I usually get whispers behind my back, but no one actually says anything, not even 'hello'."

"Worse than that, not one boyfriend ever complimented me on them – or even gone as far as acknowledging my boobs!"

And things get worse for the boob-blessed babe, 28, as she also confessed her huge hooters are so big that she struggles to find bras that can contain their glorious weight.

She said: "I always have to keep my collection stocked up – although I can't go and shop anywhere too posh because my boobs don't fit into their fancy stuff!"

"I always wear a bra to bed too – although I do let them out for special occasions."

Dear Hannah,

I HAVE a real thing for sticking objects up my poo pipe.

My missus doesn't know and I'm sure she'd be horrified.

I wait until a night when she's working late and I always lock myself in the bathroom just in case she comes home early.

The orgasms I have when I w*nk myself off up my arsehole at the same time I'm giving myself a five-knuckle shuffle are amazing — they're really intense — so I wouldn't want to have to stop. But I'm worried I'm doing something wrong.

DM, Merseyside

Hannah says:

LOTS of people like experimenting without partners.

If you were sleeping with other people behind your wife's back then I'd be a little worried.

But what you're doing is little more than masturbating while she's out at work. There's nothing wrong with what you're doing... so enjoy yourself!

Dear Hannah,

I FANCY my window cleaner and I've been trying to get him into bed for weeks now!

I've been getting out of the shower and stripping when he's been cleaning the bedroom windows.

But he still hasn't tried to chat me up when he collects his money. Any advice?

LR, Herts

Hannah says:

JUST tell him straight!

Dear Hannah,

I MET a lovely lad down the disco last week and he said he was a psychic.

To prove it, he said that he could see in his mind's eye that he was going to shag me later — and he did!

He had lovely hair and his striped shirt really suited him and went nicely with his dark black slacks and brown sandals.

What do you think about that?

VF, Devon

Hannah says:

WHAT? I'm gobsmacked!

MY GIRL SNAPPED WHEN SHE FOUND PICS OF HER PALS!

Dear Hannah,

I'M in a spot of bother with the missus and I don't know what to do — please help!

I've been with my wife for eight years now, married for six, and we've always had a fantastic sex life.

My wife is very experimental in the sack and pleases my every sexual desire.

She loves giving me blowjobs and always swallows!

We have sex every single day and she often lets me take her up the bottom.

So what the hell's wrong with that, I hear you say?

In many ways, yes, I'm a jammy git. But the problem is I really fancy her mates and have started fantasising about them.

Like my wife, they're all beautiful to look at and I'm sure they're all flirting with me.

Sexy

The other night in a fit of lust I bought a porno mag, cut out all the model's faces and then raided my wife's photo album.

I found loads of photos where her mates looked really sexy, then glued their heads on to the models' bodies.

I had about ten w*nks and then fell asleep — what a turn-on!

But I was careless. My wife got suspicious about the missing photos and found the sticky crumpled papers in the bin.

As you can imagine she hit the roof! Luckily she didn't turf me out but I feel deeply ashamed and my wife won't look me in the eye.

I would never cheat on her and have told her I love her to bits.

But she thinks what I did was even worse than shagging a stranger behind her back.

How can I convince her I'm not a total weirdo for dreaming about her mates?

JC, Co Durham

Hannah says:

HMM, it seems to me that you wouldn't be in this mess if you knew the slightest thing about computers.

Have you never heard about the wonders of Photoshop?

A bit of digital trickery wouldn't leave you with a sticky pile of evidence in the bedroom bin!

Seriously, though, you need to treat your woman like a queen in order to convince her she's still the one for you.

It sounds like she's got a good appetite for sex — so make sure it's all about her the next time you get jiggy.

Go down on her all night, ask her what she wants and see if she's got any kinky fantasies of her own.

And, this might come as a bit of a shock to you, but she probably fancies your mates too!

We're not angels either and it's perfectly natural.

If you are feeling really generous you should let her shag one of them — it's the least you could do.

Or just surprise her with a new photo album of YOUR pals.

She would enjoy watching you eat humble pie — and love frigging herself off to pictures of your best-looking mate. And you'd be a bit more careful next time after watching that!

Dear Hannah,

I HAVE a strange problem.

Every time I eat a Chinese takeaway I get a hard-on and must have sex immediately.

It doesn't happen with fish and chips or an Indian — just Chinese.

Do you think I should seek professional help or is this quite normal?

WB, Cheshire

Hannah says:

AH, so you get aroused eating noodles and so on, do you?

It is strange — crackers, even — but maybe it's caused by a certain spice used at your takeaway.

Dear Hannah,

ME and my girlfriend are both in the police force and we really like to use some of our equipment in the bedroom.

For instance, we often handcuff one another in the sack and sometimes I will frig her off with a truncheon.

But she really shocked me last week when she said that she wanted to bum me with her truncheon!

I'm not a batty boy and was really annoyed that she would even think that I'd like to have a stiff object pushed into my ring.

Should I chuck her and find a new girlfriend? I'm offended that she would think I'd go for that.

RD, London

Hannah says:

YOU don't have to be gay to enjoy bum fun with a girlfriend or wife.

Don't knock it until you've tried it!

Dear Hannah,

I WENT on holiday with the lads to Germany and discovered this amazing new porno mag called Fruit & Veg.

It's packed full of amazing birds doing all sorts with fruit.

Of course, you've got the obvious ones like bananas and grapes but I don't think you've lived until you've seen a woman with a pineapple up her fanny.

It certainly gave me a few ideas and when I got back home I decided to fruit up my sex life with the missus.

I bought a bag of plums but she refused to have them anywhere near her chuff. What can I do?

TT, Kent

Hannah says:

TELL her it'll be good for her diet — we all need to have our five a day!

Is next-door nookie a good idea? This fella had me licked!

Dear Hannah,

I GOT chatting to my neighbour a couple of weeks ago.

He's in his mid-50s and has taken early retirement.

I'm 30, blonde with a nice figure and have just moved to the area.

As we were talking I could see him looking at my boobs and legs and when he suggested that he could show me the local pub, I knew what he was after.

I agreed to go and after a few drinks we went back to his house and he f***ed the arse off me. He's got a massive cock and a surprising amount of stamina.

As I'm single and not looking to have a relationship and he is divorced, do you think it's OK to continue to have no-strings sex?

LF, Essex

Hannah says:

YES. It's probably the perfect arrangement for you both. Just make sure you both know where you stand and that you want the same thing. And remember, if it all goes tits up, you've still got to live next door to him!

Dear Hannah,

I REALLY like a man who can lick me into a frenzy.

I'm 32 with long blonde hair, great legs and a massive pair of tits.

Nothing gets me going more than a tongue up my tube.

Last week I was out with some pals of mine and I noticed this fella who wasn't much of a looker but had a giant tongue — which he was sticking out to make his mates laugh.

I went to chat to him and then dragged him to the women's toilets and pulled down my knix. He got down on his knees and explored every inch of my fanny.

I was in heaven and came about five times! That was good enough for me so I invited him back to my place.

But when we got back there for more fun I found his dick was as tiny as his tongue was huge.

What a disappointment!

JL, East Yorks

Hannah says:

NEVER mind, at least he's halfway to being perfect!

Real girls getting 'em out

Chelsea, 28
from Grantham

This reminds me of a wet weekend me and my boyfriend Dave had in Morcambe last February. It rained the whole time so we just stayed in our room and bonked the days away. This picture and some sore bits was all we brought home!

The girls who get 'em out are the genuine partners of Sport readers and have no connection to any of the adverts that appear on these pages. If you want to be a star without a bra send your picture to realgirls@sundaysport.co.uk and we'll get back to you

Real girls getting 'em out

Manda, 23 from Wrexham
 My dream is to be a top model like you see in the Sport and this is a picture from my portfolio that my mum's fella took. Does that sound weird? Well, it's OK cos my mum was there, too! Hope you like!

The girls who get 'em out are the genuine partners of Sport readers and have no connection to any of the adverts that appear on these pages. If you want to be a star without a bra send your picture to realgirls@sundaysport.co.uk and we'll get back to you

CALL GIRLS

Meet the women on the other end of the UK's filthiest adult phone lines

Don't think for a moment that I need to do this for the pittance I get from talking dirty to guys on the phone.

Oh no, you see I've got more money than I can spend. I have a big house on a private estate, a garage full of cars and a wardrobe full of designer clothes. My company is in the financial services sector and, despite what you may have heard, things are going well.

There reason I talk dirty on the phone while guys jack off thinking about me and sometimes even join in the masturbation myself, is because I love it. It's so dirty and sort of humiliating. What would my senior managers think if they knew I was doing this? What would my husband think? What would they think at my tennis club?

Know what? I don't give a s***...I know what I like

If you see this symbol on any ad it's our guarantee you'll blow your load in no time! Give it a try!

Naked driver gives police runaround

COPS were left dumb-founded when a NAKED driver led them on a LOW speed chase.

Authorities received a call about a motorist driving a green Buick Regal erratically through some back country roads.

James Joseph Bell, 29, refused to stop for deputies and continued to drive over the county border between Obion and Weakley in Tennessee.

He led officers from three different law enforcement agencies on a low-speed chase ranging from 15-20 miles per hour.

He then veered off-road into nearby fields and eluded police briefly before he was intercepted and arrested.

Bell admitted to officers that he was driving after taking methamphetamine.

He was arrested and faces up to 12 charges for the incident, including reckless driving, indecent exposure and aggravated assault.

DICK IN FAN
FOR MONEYBy NEIL GOODWIN
neil@sundaysport.co.ukNICKELBACK crooner Chad Kroeger has told how he PAID a roadie to stick his cock in an electric fan...because he was BORED!The Rockstar singer says he's always egging on members of his crew to do stupid stunts. And one unfortunate drum technician was left with a badly-mangled pork sword after thrusting it into a spinning metal blade – for a LAUGH.

Chad, 37, (pictured) admitted: "We've always been very close to our crew, so we've had a lot of fun getting them to do silly, stupid things that could possibly cause them to hurt or injure themselves in some way. "We were in Germany and we were just bored. There was a heat wave going on and there was an old fan with a metal blade.

"And we paid the drum tech – oh God, I forget the exact amount – to stick his Johnson in the fan.

"He took the money. "I can still hear the "bleh-bleh-bleh" of the blade – slowly sputtering to a stop and this blood-curdling scream.

"It was fantastic!

"I think someone has video footage of it – that needs to be resurrected and shown at the guy's next birthday party."

Students talk SEX

I don't think there was a single thing we didn't do to each other

FIRST TIME SEX

NESSA: So what was your first time like?
JULIA: It was crap, quite frankly. I was at this barbecue with a load of girls I used to go horse riding with.

I was totally bladdered after drinking loads of pints of snakebite. I went down the field with this bloke called Jimmy and he popped my cherry.

I can't really remember it to be honest. I just remember having mud all over my bum and my mum asking why I was so filthy when I got in the car at the end of the night.

NESSA: Oh, that's a shame. Mine was with my first boyfriend and it was pretty good. We'd had loads of fumbles before so he kind of knew what he was doing.

He had a massive willy, looking back, so it's a good job he could do the foreplay! I really enjoyed it and even had an orgasm, which according to my friends is rare for the first time.

JULIA: Yes, it is. I lost my virginity at 16 but didn't have an orgasm through sex with a fella until I was 18!

GIRLS' TOYS

NESSA: Have you ever tried a vibrator?
JULIA: Well, given I didn't have an orgasm with a man for two years, I've done a fair bit of DIY!

I've got a few vibrators. I love my bullet one and I've just got a new Rabbit. It's called a Happy Rabbit and you can plug it in to charge it.

It saves me a fortune on batteries and it's bloody brilliant!

NESSA: You are a one. I've got a Rabbit as well. It's a pink one and I have to put batteries in mine. I might get the one like yours.

I've also tried those cock rings as well that you can get in the supermarket. They can be a laugh, but they don't last very long, do they?

BEST EVER BONK

NESSA: Have you ever had a really good shag?

JULIA: Yeah. I can't believe I'm telling you this, but when I lived at home I had a threesome with a couple of postmen!

NESSA: Oh my God! That really is Special Delivery.

JULIA: It was good. I had sex with both of them and it was the best night ever. I was seeing one of them and one night his mate came round after the pub and it just happened.

At one point I was giving my fella a nosh while his mate took me from behind. It was like being in a porn film. I thought I was a right slut at the time but now I'm so glad I did it.

NESSA: Wow, that's mental! I think my best shag was when I went away to the Lake District for my boyfriend's 21st. We took loads of booze and whipped cream, sex toys and chocolate body paint and had a brilliant time just shagging the arses off each other all weekend.

We'd rented a cottage and it was all a bit basic and cheap, but we were miles from anywhere and could be as uninhibited as we liked. And believe me, we were. I don't think there's a single thing we didn't do to each other.

OH NO! MOMENTS

NESSA: Have you ever been caught on the job?

JULIA: Yes, a few times. The worst one was when I was on holiday and my friend Shaz was in the bed next to me.

She'd gone to bed early but I'd stayed out and pulled this fit fella and brought him back.

Anyway, I was giving a blowjob and when he came he made loads of noise and woke my mate up. She was not impressed to see me with a bloke's knob in my gob!

NESSA: My worst moment ever was when I was having a bit of 'me time' with my vibrator and my sister walked in.

I went to turn it off but turned it up higher instead and was buzzing away under the duvet. I was dying of shame!

LESBO-LOVIN'

NESSA: Have you ever got off with a girl?
JULIA: I've had a bit of a snog, but that's about it.

NESSA: I once got fingered by one of my friends when I was drunk. She just started kissing me and the next minute I knew she had her hands in my knickers.

I let her do it for a bit then I sobered up and just thought 'No!'

JULIA: I'd get off with a girl if there was a man around, but not on our own. I don't think I'm cut out to be a lesbian.

FAVE POSITION

JULIA: Do you have a favourite position?
NESSA: Yes, I love it doggy style. I like it when a man grabs my bum while we're doing it and thrusts really hard. I also like to do it on the bedroom floor rather than on the bed where you're wobbling around. I love a guy slamming into me!

JULIA: I like that too, but I think my favourite one is me on top. I like to give the guy a good look at my boobs while they bounce around!

Being in control is good as well. But I like all the positions really. I like to change things round when I'm having a good sesh!

BOTTY TRICKS

NESSA: What about anal, would you try a bit of that?

JULIA: Well, when I had the threesome with the postmen we had a bit of anal as well.

NESSA: Oooh, it's all coming out now!
JULIA: I know. It was OK. I did it with the one with the smallest willy. He had a bit of a result really.

The other bloke was going down on me at the same time to distract me! It worked because I was so horny I didn't care.

NESSA: Wow, that's one way to pop your anal cherry! I have tried it a couple of times but I don't really like it.

I don't mind them putting it up there a few times but I couldn't let them pump away up my bum. It's far too weird!

FANTASIES

NESSA: One thing I'd really like to try out is to dominate a bloke. I'd like to dress up in really high leather boots and a leather corset.

Then I think I would quite like to walk on his back and get him to lick my boots. Then I'd take off my clothes and get him to make me come over and over again, then maybe give him a handjob if he was lucky and send him on his way!

JULIA: Hmmm, that's a bit rum! I'd like to dress up as a naughty nurse and have my man pretend to be my patient.

I'd like to get him out of his clothes and give him a really slow, teasing blowjob. Then I'd strip out of my uniform and give him the ride of his life!

'Row' woman bites through fella's ballbag

A WOMAN woke up her boyfriend after a row by biting through his SCROTUM.

Chubby Linda Mendez tore right through the skin, causing serious bleeding, said cops.

She apparently got the hump after the unnamed man, 46, went to sleep before she'd finished arguing with him.

He later told police he did not want to press charges, but Mendez (above), 40, was booked for aggravated assault and domestic violence.

The extent of the man's injuries in Jersey City, New Jersey, has not been revealed.

The attack bears similarities with the case of another woman accused of ripping off her ex-fella's scrotum after a row.

Christina Reber, 43, is said to have marched into his home, grabbed his balls and squeezed "as hard as she could."

Teacher 'had sex with student, 14'

A SCHOOL is reeling after the married female head of its parent-teacher association was nicked for reportedly shagging a student.

Jayme Sanders (above) is said to have met the 14-year-old boy when he became pals with her DAUGHTER.

Steamy sex sessions took place at her HOME and also in a portable CLASSROOM at the Palmetto Middle School in Williamston, South Carolina, say cops.

The alleged affair lasted SIX MONTHS and a police probe began after the boy's mother reported the alleged relationship.

Former supply teacher Sanders, 33, has been charged with criminal sexual conduct with a minor.

MONKEY BUSINESS

MONKEY scientists from the Biomedical Primate Research Centre in the Netherlands monitored 15 female and seven male macaques in a giant enclosure for four months – and found they can't have sex with an audience.

I HAD to give CPR to an old guy a few days ago. To be honest, it was pretty disgusting, but it kept him going until the paramedics came with the defibrillators. And the good news is that he's made pretty much a full recovery from a massive heart attack. It's the most important thing I reckon I've ever learned and every I urge every LAD out there to be able to do it properly too. It also makes for great chat with the girls!

StayingAliveLAD

LAST night I staggered into a chippy at 3.15am and said to the man: "I've got 50p and it's my birthday today – what can you give me?" I walked out with a full sausage supper...and got to keep my 50p.

TopChippyLAD

SITTING watching TV with my son and Pixie Lott comes on wearing very short shorts – where you can basically see her arse. My son says: "Dad, I like her...and I like her shorts too!" He's only 5.

CheekyLittleLAD

I WENT to the pub where my brother works for a quick pint after my shift. He told me he had a bird (7/10) coming back with him that night but as he washed his bedding that morning he asked if I could put the fresh sheets on his bed for him, before they got back. Being the loving brother I am, I oblige – but I also dig out all his old childhood teddy bears and a onesie that was bought for him last Christmas as a bit of a joke. I then arranged it all over his bed. It was greeted by the sound of laughter and cry of "you bastard!"

BrotherlyLoveLAD

MY grandLAD is nearly 90 and has been married for 60 years. When I asked him what the best 10 years were, he replied: "The 10 years before I got married were bliss."

If you haven't already seen it, then you're missing out on some of the FUNNIEST real life stories and pictures the web has to offer.

Every week, we print a selection of their daily updates of true tales of lad life. Birds, booze, sport – you name it, www.truelad.com has got it covered. But don't take our word for it, check out the site yourself. You're guaranteed to piss yourself... in a good way!

two pissed-up chavvy shitLADs start giving me grief for no reason. I begin to think I'm going to be on the wrong end of a beating when my lift pulls up. Little do they know I travel with four 6ft+ giant polishLADs. They jump from the car and chase the chavs off down the street. After a short while they come back to the car and we head off to work. Then we see the twats walking on the other side of the road so the driver swerves over and soaks them by driving through a massive puddle.

TO the absolute LAD who pulled over while I was walking along the motorway after my car ran out of petrol. He drove five miles out his way to take me to a petrol station to buy a can and fill up with petrol. Then take me back on to the motorway, a junction further up, so he could drop me at my car to save me walking all the way back down the motorway in the dark – all at rush hour! I salute you, Sir, and I owe you a fair few sherberts if I ever see you in town.

WENT to see my gran earlier and while watching Countdown with her one youngLAD contestant says: "I've got a risky word – I'm not too sure about. It's 'Doobie'." The woman with the dictionary says: "Doobie" – a cannabis cigarette."

Your stars with Britain's

CAPRICORN (22 Dec - 19 Jan): What is revealed around Tuesday may make you think that you are being taken for a fool when in fact you should find out something that is a very real revelation. After that, you could find yourself on some kind of noble quest. However, not until around the end of the week will you realise just how much is attainable. Meanwhile, you are about to become pals with someone who will ensure that you don't come out second best – and they are utterly different from anyone else.

AQUARIUS (20 Jan - 18 Feb): Some people are worth knowing and you should find yourself in bright company, to put it mildly. There is no doubt that someone will cast a magic spell over you as this week begins, but can you trust them? Still, you will be shown a good time. Careerwise you may once again be confronted by challenges, but having been on a collision course. Suddenly the opposition will cease. An emotional reunion is likely to take place on Friday, and that other people will watch reflectively from a distance.

PISCES (19 Feb - 20 Mar): Despite all the recent comings and goings life should be wonderfully diverse, especially if you happen to be travelling or on the move. A business trip is also on the agenda, but the people you are involved with are a real mixed bag. Apart from that, you will get an answer on Tuesday regarding your future employment. The same applies if you are purchasing a property. There is no doubt that the family fortunes will receive a timely boost at the end of the week.

ARIES (21 Mar - 19 Apr): With Mercury in Sagittarius turning retrograde on Tuesday, there could be a sudden change of plan. More likely you will have to fend off some unwelcome visitors, that's all. Of course, you still have certain financial obligations to fulfill, and in this instance you can expect some pleasant surprises. The most surprising thing is that a partner or someone closer will enter into an agreement around Friday, and it's the kind of arrangement that you cannot pass up – so nice, and so rare.

TAURUS (20 Apr - 20 May): It may be business as usual. However, it's time to stop others living off your generosity. As it is, what is proposed on Tuesday is less than you expected, though you have already made provision for this. Letting go of a relationship is another decision you will have to make, and yet it is not really you who is holding on. Luckily, you will manage to keep all your assets. Not only that, but you are likely to receive a bonus on Friday – and it is everything you wanted.

GEMINI (21 May - 20 Jun): There is no doubt that partners or other individuals have some explaining to do. All the same, what you are told on Tuesday doesn't really add up, and must be taken with a pinch of salt. In the meantime, you should seize a challenging opportunity to work with someone that could solve all your problems. Finally, a stunning link between Venus in Libra and Jupiter in Gemini on Friday will enable you to keep romance alive, and even transform your life, particularly your love life.

CANCER (21 Jun - 22 Jul): What is suggested as the working week begins may seem impractical. It may mean you'll want to consider choosing to go freelance. Strange to relate, but in a way the same applies if you are currently involved in a love triangle. Obviously a new domestic arrangement might answer all your concerns, even though this doesn't mean that others are prepared to participate. In truth, what happens around Friday should leave secretly delighted, and you cannot discount a dream move.

LEO (23 Jul - 22 Aug): Mercury in Sagittarius turning retrograde on Tuesday may coincide with a change of heart, even though you have been quietly nurturing a personal association. However, it seems that others are reluctant to express their real feelings, and that there is no reason to be insecure. True, things might appear a bit crowded at home, but as it turns out you will be provided with a marvelous escape route on Friday. Just say you're staying with a friend, which is the best thing anyway.

HAS JUSTIN TOPER BEEN SPOT ON WITH YOUR STARS? – HE WAS FOR THIS READER...

WHAT a week I've had, and you saw it all coming! Turmoil, sudden changes of plan, need to sit back and go with the flow or go under, you said it would happen and it did.

First thing Monday morning the boss called us all in and said the whole business was moving 200 miles away to save cash. Naturally, I bricked it as there's no way I could afford to commute or move the family at short notice. Anyway, I decided to accept it and told the wife we'd have to move or I'd have to start all over again in another job – if I could get one.

But on Thursday the boss called me in and said he wanted me to stay here and be a regional manager. Result, eh?

YOUR life could be about to change – maybe in a big way, or perhaps in more subtly.

Of course, you don't know it yet, but our super-legendary stargazer Justin Toper does.

World-renowned Justin has spent his entire life interpreting the movements of heavenly bodies and working out their significance for his followers.

VIRGO (23 Aug - 22 Sep): This should still be one of the most exciting periods of the year, even if you find it hard to understand what is happening around you. Being the eternal analyst, you may question whether a radical plan will work. The family, among others, are wildly proud, even though they might cramp your style, especially on Tuesday. Much depends on the outcome of current negotiations. However, what is agreed around this Friday is probably the best result.

LIBRA (23 Sep - 22 Oct): You should be the recipient of a large sum of money, which could literally change your life. But you have other things on your mind, and what happens on Tuesday might force you to rethink your plans. Do not be deterred. Chances are that you will embrace another arrangement, though this won't exclude moral valuation or interference on others' behalf. No matter. A brilliant aspect between Venus in Libra and Jupiter on Friday will make all the difference in the world.

SCORPIO (23 Oct - 21 Nov): You may need to do your sums and calculations again, if not create a cashflow projection as this week begins. Truth to tell, you seem much more distracted by what is going on in your very personal life, as well as in front of your face. And yet, you can expect some kind of windfall around Friday from someone you are involved with. This should create positive emotions, and make you realise that you can afford to take the chance of a lifetime.

SAGITTARIUS (22 Nov - 21 Dec): You might be in a state of total wonderment and confusion due to recent developments in your private life. Since Mercury in Sagittarius alters direction on Tuesday, it would be better to keep your thoughts and feelings under wraps a while longer. True, a partner or another person has a short memory and is likely to come up with something terrific at the end of the week. It is certainly worth considering an invitation or looking at a personal arrangement again.

CHINA

AN exam supervisor has been sentenced to a year in jail for ending a school test four minutes early.

Xiao Yulong, 54, admitted having rung the bell at the school in the province of Hunan four minutes and 48 seconds early "by mistake" and was caged for 12 months for negligence.

UAE

A MAN was arrested after he turned up at Dubai Mall wearing only white cotton underpants.

Police said the man, who works for a government department, was nicked for indecency.

JAPAN

KEEPERS at Asahiya Zoo, on the isle of Hokkaido, put on diving gear to try and sneak up to an escaped flamingo in a vain attempt to catch it.

Bids to recapture the bird using nets and trained decoys also failed. It's feared the bird will freeze if it remains at large as winter approaches.

AUSTRALIA

LOCALS in the Queensland town of Millaa Millaa built their own loo in the shape of a COFFIN! when the council snubbed a request for public toilets.

Resident Pat Reynolds said: "You have to be careful, not everyone has our macabre sense of humour."

FRANCE

TERRIFIED Frenchmen ran like the spineless cowards they are when a group of wild boar stampeded through the town of Chambéry in the south east of the garlic-reeking shithole.

In scenes of gutless panic, reminiscent of 1940, the yellowbellied cheese-scoffers shrieked like girls at the sight of a few pigs snuffling through the filth and sewage running along the gutters of their wretched municipality.

The pigs were shot and the townspeople immediately concocted some fairytale about how brave they all were during the crisis.

STEVE LILLIS' KNOCKOUT BOXING COLUMN

Nathan out to swing votes in US battle

NATHAN CLEVERLY hopes to win his own US Election this week by proving he is the light-heavyweight division's future.

The Welsh star will be defending his WBO crown on one of boxing's biggest stages at the Staples Center in Los Angeles on Saturday night.

America goes to the polls on Tuesday, but the only votes Cleverly needs are from fans who want to see him in a big money match-up against Bernard Hopkins early next year.

Unbeaten Cleverly's build-up has been troubled, with visa issues preventing him flying to America until Friday. Last night he was still waiting to learn his opponent after Ryan Coyne pulled out on Wednesday.

Four years ago this week Cleverly's great mate Joe Calzaghe (right) beat Roy Jones Jr in his last contest – again coinciding with US Presidential elections.

Cleverly, 25, and the former world super-middleweight champ are close pals and sparred hundreds of rounds. Comparisons are inescapable and Cleverly said: "Joe was a great fighter and it's nice to be compared to such a good champion."

"But I'm out to be my own name and leave my own legacy, although I am comfortable with the comparisons."

"It was tough sparring with Joe because he was the best in the world at his weight but it set me up. It's starting to show in my style and the way I fight with fast hands. I helped Joe a lot because of my speed.

"I helped Joe for his fights with Mikkel Kessler and Bernard Hopkins. I probably sparred over 200 rounds with him."

"It is inevitable I'm compared with Joe, being from just a couple miles apart and having similar boxing styles."

"Every fighter wants to make their own name and in the next year or so I have got an opportunity to take on the best in the world."

Promoter Frank Warren had tried to lure old-stager Hopkins this year, but that looks likely early next year. Cleverly's 12-round next weekend will also be screened live on US TV network Showtime.

He added: "I don't set a time scale of how long I should stay in boxing. I just want to unify the division and once that is achieved then what more is there?"

● CLEVERLY'S big American bout will be shown live on BoxNation (Sky 437/ Virgin 546) from 2am on Sunday.

Hats off to a cracker!

RICKY HATTON insists boxing fans will be in for an "explosion" when Gary Buckland defends his British super-featherweight title against Stephen Foster Jr (right) later this month.

The pair clash at Manchester Arena on Saturday November 24, on the same bill as Hatton's comeback fight against Vyacheslav Senchenko.

Hatton said: "To say I'm proud of my undercard when I return would be an understatement, and this fight is a big reason why. It's an explosive match-up that has British 'Fight of the Year' written all over it.

"Gary and Steve are the No.1 and No.2 super-featherweights in Britain. They are both aggressive front-foot fighters."

"We didn't need a big ring at the Manchester Arena – we could've staged it in a phone box. It's a fantastic trade fight and the crowd at the arena and fans watching on TV are in for a treat."

STAR SAM IS TOP OF THE TRIES

Tomkins double makes him best ever

TOUCH OF CLASS: Tomkins goes in for his second try

SAM TOMKINS became England's all-time leading try scorer as Steve McNamara's men followed up their 80-12 rout of Wales with an equally impressive demolition of France at Craven Park.

The Wigan full-back – who missed the Welsh game with a knee injury – marked his return with two first-half tries to take his tally for England to 14 in as many appearances, breaking the record set by Alf Ellaby in 1935.

Centre Kallum Watkins highlighted his exceptional talent with a well-taken hat-trick, while winger Tom Briscoe marked his recall with two tries to climb in to the top-10 list.

England were coasting at 38-0 before hooker Kane Bentley scored France's only try to provide a minor irritation for McNamara. The French had suffered a body blow with the loss of full-back Cyril Stacul with concussion on 14 minutes.

The high tackle resulted in Gareth Ellis being put on report by New Zealand referee Shane Rehm.

Stole

It was largely routine for England from the sixth minute when Watkins took a pass from Ellis to score the opening try.

Scrum-half Richie Myler stole the ball from French winger Clement Soubeyras to get Briscoe away for his first and provided the pass for Tomkins to go over too. A strong run from Leroy Cudjoe then set up the position for Watkins to grab his second try.

The French defence cracked again within two minutes of the re-start as Adrian Morley's offload set up Tomkins to score his second try.

Second rower Gareth Hock then worked Briscoe over again on 48 minutes.

With the game won, McNamara could afford to take Tomkins off for the last 20 minutes and Kevin Sinfield stretched his side's lead by jinking his way over for a solo try. France got a consolation through Bentley, which Thomas Bosc converted.

But England had the final say when Watkins scored an interception try and skipper Sinfield kicked his sixth goal from eight attempts.

Ham slams into pole as Vettel hits brakes

LEWIS HAMILTON proved to be untouchable in qualifying for today's Abu Dhabi Grand Prix as he claimed his sixth pole position this season.

The Brit was fastest throughout all three sessions around the Yas Marina circuit, finishing a third of a second quicker than Red Bull's Mark Webber.

Championship leader Sebastian Vettel could only manage third – the first time he has failed to make the front row of this event.

Vettel, whose car suffered a brake issue in final practice, rarely looked comfortable during qualifying.

However, in leading Ferrari's Fernando Alonso by 13 points in the championship standings, there are four places between the German and the Spaniard who starts seventh.

FORMULA ONE

Vettel failed to make it back to the pits, pulling his car over after qualifying had concluded, which will be cause for the stewards to investigate.

Vettel, who was ordered by engine suppliers Renault to stop the car, said: "I don't know why I had to stop. I was asked to stop."

"It's probably some problem, but it shouldn't be something major."

Hamilton (left) was unable to explain either where his speed had come from, even though this has been one of his better tracks. "The car's been feeling fantastic, great from the get go, but we have no upgrade package so I don't know. It was just great," he said.

COLLEGE GETS FULL MARKS

GREYHOUNDS
with MICK LIVESEY

THE BAGS track championship moves to Kinsley today were they take on the might of the North-East in the shape of Newcastle and Sunderland. This competition has me gripped. I love it and it's been pretty profitable so far and I predict things will improve even further.

The standout bet on the card for me is KIELDUFF COLLEGE for Newcastle trainer Jimmy Wright, one of the best dog men in the country.

College looks to be capable of operating at a different level than his opposition today. Kinsley though is a track packed with danger for newcomers but Jimmy is very much a man to cover every angle and has given his talented stayer two looks around this tricky Yorkshire venue. That should pay dividends.

CHAMPION WALLIS GIVES MEMBERS HOPE

Mark Wallis very rarely does things by half. He recently set up a new syndicate and his first purchase was an April 2011 whelp called I Am Titanium.

A grandson of super brood Mega Delight, he is yet to race but was given a trial around Yarmouth over 462M and stopped the clock in a sensational time for one so young and inexperienced of 28.57.

He is definitely one for the notebook. To find out more visit www.markwallisgreyhounds.co.uk

CHELSEA caused a storm by accusing bungling ref Mark Clattenburg of being racist to one of their players.

I'm surprised that the Blues were so shocked at hearing this alleged racist language as I'd have thought they would be used to it coming from their captain John Terry.

The West London club hasn't had much sympathy.

The Blues saying a ref was racist to them is a bit like Jimmy Savile claiming he was molested as a kid.

In typical Chelsea style, their moral high ground lasted all of three days when one of their numbskull fans was caught doing monkey gestures at Manchester United's Danny Welbeck.

Revenge

Chelsea reacted to the moronic behaviour by saying they will investigate and act accordingly. Rumours that they plan to make him joint skipper are probably not true.

The club decided not to pursue an earlier claim that Clattenburg had called Juan Mata a Spanish tw*t. They apparently dropped it after finding out the

Ian excited about his landing at the Eagles

By TREVOR WILLIAMS

IAN HOLLOWAY says he feels galvanised after taking over as manager at Crystal Palace.

The Eagles have given Holloway a four-and-a-half-year contract after the 49-year-old decided to leave Blackpool.

He succeeds Dougie Freedman, who left Selhurst Park to join Bolton.

Holloway admitted: "I got great energy when I met the club's owners and I just can't wait to get going."

Proud

"I am bringing in Keith Millen as my assistant. He is a Croydon boy and he is as excited as I am about the opportunity."

"This is a fantastic opportunity for myself and a fresh start."

"It is sad to leave Blackpool as my time there was the best trip I have been on."

"I leave there very proud of what was achieved and I wish them all the best."

"I just see this as too good an opportunity to turn down."

The move brings an

READY FOR A NEW CHALLENGE: Holloway end to Holloway's three-and-a-half-year stay with Blackpool, with his greatest achievement having been leading the Seasiders to promotion to the Premier League in 2010.

Relegation followed a year later, but not before Holloway and his players had made a big impression on the top flight.

Holloway then guided Blackpool to the Championship play-off final where they were beaten by West Ham.

Palace chairman Steve Parish declared: "Ian is a manager I have long admired and one I believe will bring something fresh and new to our club."

"I'm sure the supporters will be as excited about this appointment as I am and will get fully behind him."

Blackpool chairman

Karl Oyston said: "We understand the reasons behind Ian's decision to leave and he departs with our best wishes."

"He's played a massive part in our recent success and will go down in history as one of our most successful managers."

"It suits him to be nearer his family and I am sure he will enjoy the new challenge he has set himself."

BAGGIES GOING BOCK TO FUTURE

WEST BROM are on the trail of £2million-rated Belgium Under-21 defender Laurens De Bock.

The left-back, 19, is having an impressive season with Belgian Cup holders Lokeren and Baggies scouts have watched him several times.

De Bock (below) is on the brink of the senior national side and Albion boss Steve Clarke wants him to provide competition for Liam Ridgeway.

Lokeren academy product De Bock has been a first-team regular for three seasons. He is under contract until 2015 but is tempted by the prospect of a move to The Hawthorns.

"Any player would dream about moving to a top league like England's," said De Bock.

"I will play my matches for Lokeren and see what happens."

Angry refs ready to boycott Chelsea

By SEAN RAFTER

Chelsea games because of all this.

"Remember, it's not the first time Chelsea have targeted a referee - there's been Anders Frisk and Graham Poll.

"And some refs are now saying enough is enough. They are so disillusioned, feel vulnerable, feel they are being left isolated with no backing, no support."

"They want to speak out themselves but they are too frightened. They fear they will be sacked if they go public with their grievances."

"There have even been murmurings about strike action, but that's very much the last resort."

"They'd much prefer to get around the table with the FA, PFA, the clubs and players to sort this out as quickly as possible."

SOME Premier League referees are thinking about boycotting Chelsea games over the Mark Clattenburg affair.

Police and the FA have launched formal investigations into the European champions' allegations that Clattenburg used "inappropriate language" towards John Obi Mikel.

Manchester United boss Sir Alex Ferguson has already aired his opinion by backing 37-year-old Clattenburg.

And former Premier League referee Clive Wilkes (above) says the feelings of some match officials are so strong that they have started to discuss refusing to take charge of Chelsea games.

"I keep in touch with a lot of the lads and there is such a strength of feeling about what is happening to Mark," said Wilkes.

"I know a few referees who are even talking about boycotting

JAMES WANTS TOON TO SHOCK KOP

JAMES PERCH insists Newcastle can finally end 18 years of hurt at Anfield.

The Geordies haven't won in front of the Kop since 1994 – a nightmare run of 17 games stretching back to their first-ever Premier League visit.

Toon are set to be without crooked seven-goal top scorer Demba Ba, who is struggling with a calf problem.

He was forced off early in the win over West Brom, but at least the Magpies have Pappas Cisse ready to come back.

And Alan Pardew must also fill the void left by midfield enforcer Cheick Tiote, who serves the second of a three-game ban.

Disappointing

Perch is again set to stand in for the Ivory Coast star, and Toon's Mr Versatile is confident Newcastle can end their long unwanted run against the Scousers.

The 27-year-old said: "We've not done too well at Liverpool on our last few visits, but they have had a couple of disappointing results in the last week and we'll go there to win. We believe we can."

"If you look at their teams over the last 10 years and ask which one you'd like to play against, then I'd say I'd rather play against this one."

Brendan Rodgers hasn't watched the

"Being Liverpool" documentary that has been widely panned – but insists he has got the thick skin to turn Liverpool's tale into a Hollywood classic.

The Reds are looking for just their third Premier League victory of the campaign against Newcastle.

Rodgers has been mocked for his role in the Reds' fly-on-the-wall documentary series but maintains he is not bothered about any flak that will come his way.

Rodgers (right) said: "You have to be a certain breed to be a manager. As long as my employers and own supporters recognise the job I am doing that is the most important for me."

"In terms of the programme, I never watch the programme but the consensus for me was always going to be the same."

"Liverpool supporters would get an insight into the club. Everyone else, it was a bit of an open goal. It was something I had no choice in. It was up and running when I came in."

"But I am loving every minute of being here. I came here because of the challenge of getting the club to the top."

NELSEN EXPECTS MARK TO SPARK A TURNAROUND

RYAN NELSEN insists Mark Hughes is the right man to turn rock-bottom QPR's season around.

The Hoops entertain Reading this afternoon at Loftus Road still looking for their first victory despite splashing the cash in the summer on 12 new stars.

Nelsen arrived from Spurs on a free transfer but has established himself as a regular in central defence under his former Blackburn boss Hughes.

And the 35-year-old Welshman is taking all the flak for their poor recent run.

"It's horrible for him – if any player makes a mistake then it is the manager who gets the stick," he said.

"I feel for the fans because this is an emotional game and they want their team to win."

"When that doesn't happen they want to vent their frustrations but all I can say is that the manager is doing everything he can to win games."

"The players are all trying to do it so if we do lose it's not because we aren't trying."

Nelsen (above) added: "Mark's work ethic is really good and he's always first in, last out and he doesn't leave any stone unturned."

"But there's been variables in the last few games that no manager wouldn't be able to do anything about."

Like Hughes, Reading boss Brian McDermott is trying to mastermind his first league win of the season.

The Royals were left crushed after conceding a four-goal lead against Arsenal in the Capital One cup last week.

And he said: "I feel under pressure to do the best."

"But I don't lie awake at night and worry that someone is going to knock on my door and get rid of me."

"I've been in this business 34 years, that is not an issue to me."

ADKINS: I LOVE THE THREAT OF BEING SACKED

UNDER-FIRE Nigel Adkins insists he is still enjoying the ride at Southampton – even though his head is on the chopping block.

The Saints, who travel to the Hawthorns on Monday have made a stuttering start after claiming just four points so far this season.

Rumours continue to circle that Harry Redknapp is being lined up for a return to St Mary's.

But Adkins (below) said: "I'm loving the challenge, you only know once you're in a situation how you are going to react and face it."

"Before we even kicked a ball I think I was the favourite to be sacked."

"So every week there is a question about that and it doesn't faze me one bit."

"I'm very ambitious and we are very ambitious here at Southampton."

"The pressure is exactly the same as when I joined."

"I put my comments out straightaway that I wanted to win the league and we got ourselves promoted, then we got ourselves promoted from the Championship."

"We can go one of two ways – we can either hide behind situations and crumble or we can face everything up, stick our chests out and we can be positive in what we do."

The Baggies are bidding to bounce back after

Boss Steve Clarke said: "Hopefully on Monday night we will play as well as in those two games and put the results side of it correct as well."

"If we had conceded the same way in both games I would change it."

"I've watched the last 20 minutes of the game at Newcastle three times to see if there was something I could relate to the previous week."

"You don't always get what you deserve from your performance, but this won't affect the players' confidence one bit."

BRILLIANT Boro rounded off their fine week with a solid come-from-behind victory.

Rob Hulse gave the Addicks an early lead when his shot beat keeper Jason Steele.

But Boro soon hit back when captain Jonathon Woodgate headed home.

Scott McDonald gave them the lead on 54 minutes with a fierce shot past Ben Hamer.

And on the hour Emmanuel Ledesma lobbed Hamer to increase the advantage.

Boro sub Richard Smallwood completed the rout deep into stoppage time.

BOLTON 2

NEW Bolton boss Dougie Freedman made an inspired half-time double switch to hear the Reebok jeers turn to cheers.

Subs Martin Petrov and David Ngog were both on the mark as the Trotters turned in a sensational second-half display to down table-topping Cardiff.

Bolton and their debut manager were booed off at the break.

But Petrov struck from the spot after 67 minutes following a trip by Kim Bo-Kyung on Ngog.

HUDDERSFIELD 1
BRISTOL CITY 0

WINGER Sean Scannell plundered his first goal for Huddersfield to condemn struggling Bristol City to a fifth straight defeat.

Scannell bundled the ball in from close range on 43 minutes after Lee Novak's cross was missed by two Robins defenders.

City almost equalised on half-time when Cole Skuse's goal-bound shot was blocked by Town skipper Peter Clarke.

And second-bottom City nearly levelled it on 62 minutes when Marvin Elliott had his shot cleared off the line.

SHEFF WED 2
PETERBOROUGH 1

ON-LOAN ace Ross Barkley came up with a cracker to gain three priceless points for relegation fighters Wednesday.

The Everton youth scored just 10 seconds after the restart as the Owls grabbed a first home league win since August.

Barkley's fourth of the season took a deflection to beat keeper Robert Olejnik.

But it ignited the home side and raiding defender Miguel Liera's bullet header made it 2-0 to the Owls before danger man George Boyd pulled one back after 79 minutes.

Foxes pay price for Hornets loan men

THE Foxes' hunt for top spot suffered a setback when they were hit by a double sting at Vicarage Road.

Almen Abdi (left) and Fernando Forestieri gave Watford their first win in three, while City had Zac Whitbread sent off for two bookings after David Nugent had pulled a goal back.

The Hornets played in the image of their manager Gianfranco Zola with intricate swift passing.

WATFORD 2
LEICESTER 1

good understanding between two Udinese teammates when Abdi finished a clever through ball from Forestieri.

The Foxes were shaken into action with a Wes Morgan header cleared off the line by Jonathan Hogg on the half-hour.

Anthony Knockert went down in the box but referee Andy D'Urso gave nothing.

There seemed far less doubt when Nugent tumbled in the box under a push from behind by Tommie Hoban and a challenge from Manuel Almunia but the Essex whistler waved play on.

Watford grabbed a second in the 69th minute when Kasper Schmeichel made an excellent save but the ball dropped invitingly for Forestieri to hammer in from six yards.

N FOREST 1
MILLWALL 4

CHRIS WOOD continued his red-hot form as Forest crashed to a shock loss.

Forest saw their surge up the table halted by Millwall.

Liam Trotter curled home the Lions opener after three minutes.

Forest replied when Billy Sharp slotted home the leveller.

But Darius Henderson headed in on the hour.

And on the break on-loan Wood bagged his fifth goal in three games.

It gets worse for Forest when Lions sub Andy Keogh struck at the death.

BIRMINGHAM 0
IPSWICH 1

MICK MCCARTHY'S Ipswich reign got off to a flying start thanks to DJ Campbell.

The striker grabbed his third goal in five starts to earn the Tractor Boys a first league win in 11 games.

Campbell caught the home side cold when he slotted home after just eight minutes.

Blues boss Lee Clark threw on giant striker Nikola Zigic in the second-half to try to rescue a point.

It almost worked when the Serb was put clear, but Stephen Henderson saved before Curtis Davies blazed well over.

DERBY 4
BLACKPOOL 1

THEO ROBINSON bagged a superb brace as Derby put managerless Blackpool to the sword.

Robinson's mazy run and cool finish, for his second and Derby's third, was the pick of the goals.

Robinson opened the scoring after just 12 minutes with a tap-in.

John Brayford doubled the lead with a fierce shot from the edge of the area before a Tom Ince penalty early in the second half gave the visitors hope.

But Robinson got his second before turning provider for Conor Sammon for the fourth.

BURNLEY 2
WOLVES 0

CHARLIE AUSTIN'S 19th goal of the season helped new Burnley boss Sean Dyche get off to a winning start against woeful Wolves.

The Claret's hotshot headed home in the second half after Martin Paterson had put Burnley into an early lead.

Wolves somehow left the UK's top scorer unmarked in the area in the 53rd minute and he headed in Ross Wallace's corner.

Bakary Sako hit the post for Wolves before Sylvan Ebanks-Blake headed straight at Lee Grant from six yards to seal Dyche's first win.

MURRAY'S MINT AS BERG SINKS!

GLENN MURRAY gave new boss Ian Holloway something to smile about with his double to blow away Blackburn.

Holloway, watching from the stands and introduced to the crowd at half-time, was pleased with his side who have now gone 11 matches unbeaten.

It was a different matter for Blackburn's new boss Henning Berg, who suffered defeat in his first game in charge.

From the off Palace were the better side, with Yannick Bolasie terrorising the Rovers defence.

Berg's side had one solitary chance, from a corner, that Dickinson Etuhu thumped against the bar.

Bolasie was a constant threat and forced Paul Robinson into a low save and then headed onto the post before Palace took the lead they deserved in first-half injury time.

CRYSTAL PALACE 2

Owen Garvan was given the freedom of Selhurst Park to cross the ball from the right and Murray rose to head his ninth goal of the season.

Comfortable

Morten Gamst Pederson forced Julian Speroni into a flying save after the break but Palace were comfortable.

On 65 minutes Murray was brought down by Grant Hanley and duly dispatched the penalty.

He could have had a hat-trick five minutes later, but Robinson guessed right and saved his spot-kick.

Tigers Aluko on the bright side

SONE ALUKO settled a poor Yorkshire derby to keep the Tigers' eyes firmly on promotion.

The Nigeria star bagged his fifth goal of the season to give Hull a fourth win in five games.

Aluko (left) was a constant threat for Hull and got the goal he deserved in the 16th minute.

It came after Barnsley right-back John Stones' poor header from Aluko's cross went straight back to the former Rangers man and he carved his way into the box before drilling a low shot under keeper Luke Steele.

Steele was making his first start of the season for Keith Hill's men and had to be at his best in the 32nd minute.

He got down low early to push

Robert Koren's drive from 20 yards around the post.

Jay Simpson should have put Hull 2-0 up in the 48th minute but he was ruled out from outside the box.

Barnsley's confidence grew but shots high and wide from Stephen Dawson and Tomasz Cywka were the best they could do.

Hull ended strongly and Steele again kept Barnsley in it with a good save when Simpson slid in to meet Ahmed Elmohamady's cross from four yards out.

PABLO HERNANDEZ hit a dramatic late equaliser to dent Chelsea's title hopes as they failed to reclaim top spot.

Victor Moses' first league goal for the Blues had looked set to earn them victory at the Liberty Stadium.

But Hernandez kept up the Swans' recent resurgence under boss Michael Laudrup with a superb strike two minutes from time.

The result means the west London club have claimed just a point from their last two league matches after defeat to Manchester United last weekend.

And they now trail Sir Alex Ferguson's team by a point in the title race after the Reds' victory over Arsenal.

It might not have been as drama-fuelled as last weekend's showdown – but there was still some drama.

Chelsea started in

sluggish fashion and were almost caught off guard in the third minute.

Angel Rangel got through down the right, only for Branislav Ivanovic to make a last-ditch interception to cut out his cross to Michu.

Laudrup's team had Leon Britton to thank when he hooked a Fernando Torres header off the line.

Executed

Moses, named man of the match in the midweek Capital One Cup win over United, looked lively again.

But Torres could only head tamely into Gerhard Tremmel's hands after the Swans keeper had parried the Nigeria international's cross into the Spaniard's path.

Tremmel excelled by tipping an Eden Hazard free-kick around a post but, from the corner, Chelsea got their goal.

Oscar's set-piece was headed on by Gary Cahill and Moses executed a sublime flick which flew in off the crossbar.

Moses left the pitch to a standing ovation when he was replaced by Daniel Sturridge in the 72nd minute.

Incessant hailstones made the conditions difficult for both sides and Petr Cech was almost caught out by Nathan Dyer's chip.

It looked as though Chelsea had done enough to escape with the three points – yet Hernandez had other ideas.

He exchanged passes with sub Itay Schechter before driving a low shot into the bottom-right corner which escaped Cech's reach.

GIFT OF GAB SEES O'NEILL HITTING THE BOOS

SUNDERLAND 0
ASTON VILLA 1

GABRIEL AGBONLAHOR ended a 12-month Premier League goal drought to crank up the pressure on Martin O'Neill.

Sunderland were booed off for the second time in four days by their fed-up fans as they stretched their nightmare league run to set the alarm bells ringing on Wearside.

It's now one win in 17 top flight games stretching back more than seven months for O'Neill's shot-shy side, who were sunk by Villa's first three-point haul on the road for 14 games.

Agbonlahor – who thrived under O'Neill during his four-year Villa Park reign – came up with the killer blow 12 minutes after the break in a turgid contest that was always going to be decided by a single goal.

Sunderland failed to deal with Matt Lowton's cross to the far post.

Christian Benteke out-jumped Phil Bardsley to head back for Agbonlahor, who beat Carlos Cuellar and fired a snap-shot home from six yards.

Wonder

The Black Cats looked for a way back, but drew their latest blank to leave them without a league goal for five weeks.

That means they've scored only six league goals in 13-and-a-half hours this season.

Paul Lambert's men would have been celebrating an easy win if they had taken their chances.

Simon Mignolet produced a wonder save to deny Andy Weimann's close-range effort before Agbonlahor flicked Stephen Ireland's shot against the bar after the midfielder pounced on a sliced clearance.

Villa had late escapes when the officials failed to spot Benteke handling Adam Johnson's cross.

Fraizer Campbell's header then grazed the post as Brad Guzan bagged a rare away clean sheet.

BRAD HAS CANARIES FLYING

BRADLEY JOHNSON was Norwich's hero as his header moved the Canaries further away from the drop zone.

The midfielder struck a minute before the break from Robert Snodgrass' free-kick as Stokes slumped to a third defeat of the season.

After beating Arsenal and Spurs in their last two matches at Carrow Road, the Canaries were brimming with confidence and dominated the first half.

NORWICH 1
STOKE 0

Anthony Pilkington should have given them lead after a brilliant piece of play from Wes Hoolahan set him up.

Stoke were on the back foot for much of the half and only had a couple of Charlie Adam shots to write home about. But boss Tony Pulis was furious when referee Andre Marriner didn't award a free-kick for a foul on the Scot in the build-up to Norwich's goal.

Snodgrass was brought down on the edge of the box and stepped up to deliver a perfect ball for Johnson to head past Asmir Begovic.

The Potters' best chance fell to Jon Walters seven minutes after half-time when Peter Crouch's flick put him through, but the striker was denied by John Ruddy.

Norwich should have killed the game off but Pilkington couldn't convert his volley from Grant Holt's neat pass.

Sub Kenwyne Jones wasted another golden chance for Stoke after another Crouch knock-down. But that was as close as they came as Chris Hughton's side moved above Stoke in the table.

SAM ALLARDYCE was left the punching the air after seeing his Hammers battle for a point against the champions.

City huffed and puffed on a cold night in east London, but couldn't find the breakthrough – a bitter blow after their neighbours United climbed to the top of the table earlier in the day.

Chelsea's draw at Swansea meant that City came into this game knowing a four-goal victory would take them top. But their preparations were disrupted when James Milner injured a hamstring in the warm-up.

That meant Gareth Barry was hastily drafted into the line-up – and the late reshuffle did nothing to help City settle into the game.

Instead it was West Ham who turned up the heat in the opening exchanges.

Powerful

And they should have been ahead after just four minutes when skipper Kevin Nolan volleyed past Joe Hart from Mark Noble's free-kick.

The celebrations were cut short by an offside flag – but replays showed Nolan was onside and the goal should have stood.

Carlos Tevez had been given a warm reception on his return to Upton Park and the Argentina striker looked keen to make an impression against his former club.

But City's best early chance fell to Edin Dzeko who headed wide after Jussi Jaaskelainen had parried Samir Nasri's powerful shot.

That was one of the few moments disjointed City threatened in the first half, although Mario Balotelli missed a golden chance to open the scoring.

But with Noble and Nolan driving the Hammers forward, it was clear Roberto Mancini's side would have to work hard to get anything from the game. Nolan had another good chance early in the second half when he headed wide.

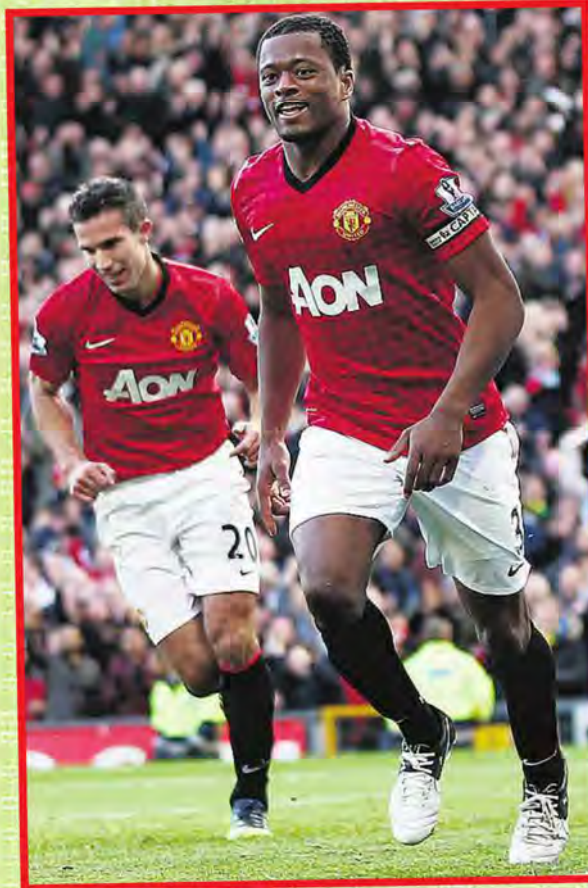

And Carroll again came close when he launched a spectacular overhead kick that was deflected to safety.

Mancini threw on Sergio Aguero, who had a shot on the turn saved smartly by Jussi Jaaskelainen after a quickly-taken free-kick.

But City's hopes were extinguished when Yaya Toure toe-poked an effort way over the bar as the minutes ticked down.

FANS HIT THE BOOS FOR AVB

BEN WATSON scored Wigan's winner with his first of the season to leave Spurs fans baying for Andre Villas-Boas' blood.

Wigan more than deserved their win against a plodding, disorganised Tottenham side, who were booed off at half-time and at the final whistle.

While Villas-Boas set his side out to play cautiously, Roberto Martinez had clearly told his men to go for the jugular.

Arouna Kone and Shaun Maloney could have had a goal each before half-time.

But Wigan got their reward from Watson's volley on 56 minutes.

Wigan had to look out for Jermain Defoe, who had scored 10 goals in his last 11 games against the Latics.

And Clint Dempsey also loves coming up against the Latics, having scored six times against Martinez's men.

But there was no chance of a goal-fest from Spurs with the conservative approach adopted by Villas-Boas.

Jan Vertonghen's 20th-minute half-volley, which Ali Al Habsi did well to gather, was as good as it got.

Spurs keeper Brad Friedel then had to make a snap save on 29 minutes to keep out Kone's shot after a clever one-two with Maloney.

By GRAHAM CHASE

ROBIN VAN PERSIE took just THREE minutes to ram Arsenal's taunts into silence.

The Dutch frontman took a ton of abuse from the Gunners fans before the clash following his £24million summer switch to Old Trafford.

But he whacked in his 10th United goal with his FIRST touch.

Wayne Rooney passed up the chance to nab a second from the spot as he missed his seventh in 20 Premier League penalty attempts.

But Patrice Evra nodded in his second goal of the campaign from a Rooney cross to give United a cushion.

And Jack Wilshere killed Arsenal's chances when he saw red.

Santi Cazorla bent in a shot with the final kick, but Arsenal's grim run at Old Trafford extended to seven defeats and a draw in their last eight visits.

Arsenal's fans were in no mood to thank Van Persie for his years of service – and he wasted no time in showing them what they are missing.

Sniff

Andre Santos started his shocking afternoon as he meant to go on by allowing Antonio Valencia to flick Rafael into space.

And even though the cross was poor, Thomas Vermaelen's attempt to clear was even worse and Van Persie fired into the bottom corner.

The Gunners' first sniff of a response saw Santos bobble a shot wide after Bacary Sagna's cross was nodded away by Rafael.

Vito Mannone stopped Van Persie running riot when the Dutchman was fed by Rooney and saw his thumping strike from a narrow angle swatted away by the Arsenal keeper.

United stopper David de Gea was finally forced into some graft when he pushed away an Aaron Ramsey blast after Evra's error.

Valencia embarrassed Santos again and Michael Carrick clipped in for Rooney, whose strike was pushed away by Mannone.

And Van Persie had a tame header saved by the Italian.

Just before the break, Per Mertesacker had an anxious moment when his sliced clearance from Rooney's cross flew just past the top corner.

The corner that followed led to Ashley Young's cross being handled by Cazorla, but Rooney held his head after firing his penalty past the left post.

The second half was only a minute old when another Vermaelen clanger allowed Van Persie through.

But the unmarked Valencia failed to even make contact with the Dutchman's cross eight yards from goal.

Carrick also saw his drive fly narrowly wide after a Rafael effort was charged down.

Olivier Giroud almost punished United for their wastefulness when he seized on a Santos cross and crashed a shot against the outside of a post.

Mannone managed to keep Arsenal's back door shut once again when Van Persie beat the offside trap to collect Young's pass, only to see the Arsenal goalkeeper push his effort wide.

But again from the corner that followed, United doubled their advantage.

Lunge

Rooney took a short corner to Young, received the ball back from the winger and clipped in a cross that was met by a glancing header from Evra.

Arsenal's day got even worse when Wilshere saw red for a second yellow card for his lunge at Evra.

Cazorla curled in a consolation with the final kick.

SPOT OF BOTHER: Rooney can't believe his penalty miss

DOUBLE: Fellaini

Sid's late banger after Fellaini's fireworks

FULHAM 2
EVERTON 2

IF this cracker at the Cottage had been a firework, it would have been one of those you think has gone out but are warned not to go back to – just in case.

It seemed to have fizzled out completely after an early freak own goal by Tim Howard.

But it came to life with a bang in the second half as Everton went ahead with two goals from Maroune Fellaini.

And there was a late surprise when Steve Sidwell popped up with a leveller for Fulham.

Martin Jol's side went ahead on seven minutes when Everton keeper Howard made a mess of a Bryan Ruiz free-kick.

The kick drifted over the wall and Howard, diving to his left, looked as if he would catch the ball with little trouble.

But somehow he could only palm it onto the inside of the post, back against his own shoulder and into the net.

Crash

Fulham sat back and soaked up Everton pressure, which looked like a good move with the Toffees struggling to find a final pass.

But the second half was a totally different story.

Everton equalised after 55 minutes when Kevin Mirallas stayed onside and crossed low from the right for Fellaini to crash a shot into the roof of the net off the body of Mark Schwarzer.

Suddenly Everton looked the only winners and their second goal arrived in the 72nd minute.

Fellaini took down a long forward pass, shrugged off Brede Hangeland and drove the ball low into the corner.

And Fellaini could have had a hat-trick when his angled shot deflected off Hangeland and against the far post.

Everton deserved a win, but instead ended up with a draw as Sascha Riether's 90th-minute cross was miskicked by Dimitar Berbatov, ending up in front of Fulham sub Sidwell who knocked the ball in from a yard.

AFTER PULLING LONELY DEFOE

whose close-range shot was kept out by Friedel's outstretched leg.

The two chances had Spurs rattled – and were the least Wigan deserved after looking the better team.

But just as the home side began to look more ragged, Steven Caulker saw a header go over the bar.

Two minutes before the break Kone drove at Spurs again, bamboozling Vertonghen before crossing for Watson – but the ex-Crystal Palace man blasted over the bar from the edge of the box.

Then 11 minutes after the restart Watson made up for his miss when he volleyed home after Friedel had punched out Maloney's corner.

Villas-Boas knew things had to change – but what he did brought more boos from the home fans.

He dragged off Defoe, who had been isolated on his own up front and starved of service for the entire match, for Emmanuel Adebayor.

Gareth Bale went close on 65 minutes as Spurs started to show a bit more urgency – or desperation – but Al Habsi

James McCarthy headed Caulker's effort off the line, before Gylfi Sigurdsson fired straight at Al Habsi with 10 minutes left.

But Wigan held on – and Villas-Boas followed his players down the tunnel with the fans' jeers ringing in his ears.

Jack sees red as Van smashes Gunners

JACK WILSHERE saw red to sum up Arsenal's day to forget at Old Trafford.

Robin van Persie stunned his old club with a third-minute opener and Patrice Evra bagged a second.

Wayne Rooney could even afford to miss a penalty before Santi Cazorla grabbed one back in injury-time.

United chief Sir Alex Ferguson pulled Tom Cleverley out of the action to avoid him also getting sent off.

But Gunners boss Arsene Wenger insisted a tiring and frustrated Wilshere should not have been dismissed after a lunge on Evra.

Wenger said: "It wasn't deserved - he went for the ball. Maybe he needs to be more careful but his game is commitment. We did not create a lot - and we had a lot of the ball." Van Persie produced the perfect response to the taunts of his old fans following his £24million summer switch to Old Trafford.

But the Dutchman refused to celebrate his goal, saying: "It was a special day. In the end it was quite a game."

Respect

"It speaks for itself. I played at Arsenal for eight years and had a fantastic time there. It was out of respect for the whole club."

Rooney's miss took United's penalty tally to one successful spot-kick in their last five. Fergie joked: "I'll take the next one myself!"
